Constitution by the Chicago Daily News

LONDON, England, Feb. 2.—(Chicago Daily News.—)Irrefragable proof of the purpose of the English-speaking peoples to maintain a united, moral front against war promises to be one of the most beneficial outcomes of the five-power naval conference. That this proof will appear unmistakably in due course is virtually certain. Signs of it are already in evidence and the conference is barely well started.

Premier Ramsay MacDonald and President Hoover, without using language indiscreetly specific, tried a few months ago in Washington to make the fact universally clear that Great Britain and America never again will fight each other—that the Bland-Kellogg pact as between themselves is immutably sacred. They made that effort. They made it conspicuously and they made it honestly. But they did not wholly succeed.

Italians Skeptical.
Skepticism has remained in Europe.
"They are fooling with each other,"
said a goodly number of European observers, mostly perhaps in Italy.
These skeptics were persuaded that no real harmony of sentiment or aim between England and America lay behind Premier MacDonald's visit to Washington or anything which happened there. Great Britain and America were farther apart than ever.
Each was bent upon its own way of "imperialistic course." Naval parity between them was a joke. One day all pretense of pacific policies would be thrown aside and they would fight.
That view was held all too widely on the continent of Europe and it was a pernicious view. Those holding it for the most part were themselves rather warlike. Not by any means were they convinced that a war's uses were at an end. They were convinced on the contrary that many European political problems would yield only to the sword. And they were saying—the American state department for example knows what they were saying
—"when the British and Americans begin their struggle it will be time for us to strike."

No U. S.-British Struggle.
What the continental European delegates to the naval conference are learning and reporting back to their governments on this, heavy is that Great Britain and America are not going to begin any struggle with each other—that the MacDonald-Hoover negotiations and proclamations at Washington meant exactly what they purported to mean. And these delegates are learning and reporting back to their governments something else which is all to the good. They are dissipating another false impression about Great Britain and America, for there were at least two, and these irreconcilable. One, as stated, was that Great Britain and America were false friends and would fight each other. The other, equally ruthless, was that Great Britain and America had laid foundations for a joint

Jury Will Reopen
Park, School QuizNEW FUEL TURNED INTO LOCAL HOMES

Mrs. J. L. Nesbitt, of Vesta Avenue, Is First User of Natural Gas.

At 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon a group of engineers of the Atlanta Gas Light Company watched Alfred E.
Hurlbut, consulting engineer for the company, turn the great valve at Vesta avenue, which divides East Point and College Park, and admit natural gas to the service mains system which serves the two boroughs and Hapeville.
Fifteen minutes later Mrs. J. L.
Nesbitt, of 215 West Vesta avenue, having watched the workmen adapt her kitchen range to the new fuel, began the preparation of the evening meal, the first meal in Atlanta to be cooked with natural gas. The Nesbitt home is nearest the point where natural gas enters the service mains for this territory, and technically at least, is the nearest residence in Atlanta to the Monroe and Richland gas fields in Louisiana, more than 400 miles away, which is the source of Atlanta's new fuel.

Next in turn were several customers who are using gas furnaces to heat their homes, among them Mayor J. L.
Ragsdale, of the borough of East Point.

During today, according to the calculations of engineers, all of the manufactured gas in the mains in this territory will have been used up and natural gas will have replaced it. Natural gas is exactly the same heat value as the manufactured gas, and verging all ranges and gas appliances will begin in earnest, and within a few days will be completed, at which time gas will be turned into additional territory, according to gas company officials.

Citizens of Buckhead and the Peachtree road section will have natural gas turned into the mains which serve them early this morning and should get the natural gas during the day. This territory is a main line fewer customers, and consequently the adjustment of their gas burning apparatus will be completed more quickly.

The adjustments will consist in reducing the flow of gas to about half
as much as formerly was necessary,
which will give exactly the same heat value as the greater quantity of manufactured gas gave, according to statements of gas company officials.

The amount of heat which formerly was given by the manufactured gas will be given after adjustment to the new fuel, will be exactly the same,
according to officials of the company.
This means that meals will not be cooked any more rapidly than before, but that less gas will be used in the process.

The flames from natural gas is quiet, and appears to be "lazy," it was pointed out by officials. It never makes the hissing or "blowing" noise which manufactured gas sometimes gives, which has come to be associated with great heat. According to gas company engineers the "lazy" flame gives just as great heat, although it does not appear to be as hot, and an attempt to adjust the flame to give exactly the same appearance as the manufactured gas flame would result in an inefficient mixture, which would waste gas.

Notice has been given customers affected by the change in fuel that all automatic water heaters, range ovens, room heaters and the like should not be used until they are adjusted. The top burners on gas ranges, however,
may be turned down until the flame is normal and may be thus used without difficulty.

Will Elect Officers.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 2.—(AP)— Two patriotic societies will elect officers at annual meetings to be held this week and next. The Georgia Society of the Sons of the Revolution elects Wednesday evening, holding a dinner afterwards at which addresses will be made.

More Than 200 Witnesses
Subpoenaed in Preparation for Investigators' Busiest Week.

Gauged by the number of witnesses summoned to appear before it this week the Fulton county grand jury this afternoon will swing into its third month of graft inquiry with the hardest schedule of work it has so far attempted.

Solicitor-General John A. Boykin has announced that more than 200 witnesses, the largest number so far subpoenaed, will come before the grand jury for examination during the week. Coincident with this announcement was the statement from W. Rawson Collier, foreman of the grand jury, that he had received and "considered" a formal demand that his body investigate the office of Pat H.
Hendricks, city electrician.

Another development into the probe of city affairs is the announcement that the school and park departments again will receive the attention of the grand jury when it resumes work today. It has been learned on reliable authority that the grand jurors are conducting an inquiry into the physical condition of all school buildings erected in recent years. They hope, it is said to ascertain through this inquiry whether conditions exist in any other buildings similar to the serious break which occurred about a year ago in a wall erected in 1924
at the Henry W. Grady Senior High School for Boys.

Saturday's developments included adoption of a resolution by the parks committee of the council calling on Solicitor-General Boykin and the grand jury foreman to be Councilman John A. White, committee chairman, in an explanation "of the damage being done to the taxpayers" by the holding up of payments for park sewers, deals concerning which are being investigated by the grand jury.

BROKEN GAS LINE
TAKES THREE LIVES

Ten Others Are Overcome by Escaping Fumes
in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 2.—(AP)—
Three persons were killed and ten overcome here today by gas fumes escaping from a 4-inch gas main in the northwestern part of the city, broken by frost leaving the ground.
The dead are members of one family,
six of those overcome lived in adjoining houses and four were firemen who responded with resuscitating apparatus.

The dead are Henry Witzler, 69;
his wife, Mary, 69, and their son, Patrick Witzler. Their bodies were discovered by firemen.

Presence of the gas was detected by Miss Lauretta King, who was awakened by the coughing of her 4-year-old stepbrother, Earl Bayne. She found her mother and stepfather overcome and notified the police.

Fire department ambulances were rushed to the scene and in an adjoining house, Mrs. Eva Siske and her daughter, Eva, were found overcome. The ten who suffered from the effects of the gas were taken to hospitals and all but four were able to return to their homes later in the day.

Gas officials said the fracture in the main was caused by the street settling as frost was leaving the ground.

Jugo-Slavia Honors
Man Who Started War

SARAJEVO, Jugo-Slavia, Feb. 2.— (United News.)—Gabriel Princip, young student who fired the shot that started the Balkan wars, was honored today by Jugo-Slavia, a nation carved out of that conflict.

In the presence of 500 persons a marble tablet was unveiled at the house in which Princip lived when he assassinated Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the Austrian throne,
on the fateful 28th of June, 1914.

Princip's act was in protest against alleged oppression of Serbs and Bosnians by the Austro-Hungarian government. It led to a declaration of war against Serbia by Austria-Hungary, which was followed by the general warfare begun in August, 1914.
Two minutes' silence was observed here during the unveiling. There was widespread religious observance of the event.

C. W. CRANKSHAW,
CITY PATROLMAN,
DIES OF WOUNDS

Comrades To Take Part in Policeman's Burial Today; Negro Assailant
Reported Near Death.

Three hours after he had been wounded in a pistol battle with a negro giving the name of Willie Counts, Patrolman Charles W. Crank-shaw, of the Atlanta police force, died at Grady hospital Sunday morning at 3:30 o'clock. The negro, wounded by pistol shots from the gun of a fellow officer, also carried to Grady for treatment, is not expected to live.

This morning at 11 o'clock, from the St. Paul Methodist church, funeral services for the dead officer will be held and afterwards the body will be taken under police escort to Crest Lawn cemetery for interment.
Music will be rendered at the grave
by the police band and a quartet.
Crankshaw is survived by his wife and one brother, John A. Crankshaw, also a member of the police force.

The fatal shooting of the patrolman occurred just after midnight Sunday when the officer, observing the pockets of Counts bulging, ordered him to submit to a search of his person at the store of Jim Pappas, 423 Mitchell street.

The negro's reply to the officer's command was to whip out his pistol and fire four shots, three of which took effect. Crankshaw's body before the policeman could reach for his own pistol. Patrolman R. C.
McGill, who had driven to the Pappas store, saw the shooting and rushed on the negro as he fled, sending one bullet through his abdomen and another through his left arm.

Crankshaw and McGill, partners
on the west side beat, had been comrades for more than two years and they had just "pulled" the last box, sleigh for the night, and had started to headquarters. They stopped at the Pappas store for Crankshaw to buy a bundle of kindling wood when the negro attracted their notice.

Both Crankshaw and McGill recently were commended by officials of the Georgia Power Company for their efficiency in checking street car holdups. When McGill came on duty Sunday afternoon with the 4 o'clock shift, Captain A. J. Holcombe, in charge, paid the dead officer a high tribute and praised McGill for the alertness with which he returned the attack on Crankshaw.

trustee at the Soldiers' home.

U. S. EXPORTS SET
10-YEAR RECORD

Five and a Quarter Billions Is Value of 1929 Shipments.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—
An increase in exports from the United States to the highest point since 1925 was shown in complete returns for 1929 issued today by the department of commerce.

Only the years of 1916 and 1920, when prices were inflated by war and post-war conditions, have exports been higher than the $5,248,000,000 total recorded last year. This was 2.3 per cent more than sales abroad during 1928 and was nearly two and one-half times larger than the average value for the period 1910-1914. It also was 10 per cent greater than exports for the period 1921-1925.

Sales of finished manufactures,
which gained 12 per cent in the year,
were responsible for the aggregate gain, exports of cotton, grain and tobacco having shown a decrease.

Practically the entire increase in total exports was confined to the first four months of the year, October, November and December exports declining. Shipments of finished manufactures were larger, however, in all except three months—May, November and December.

Complete statistics for imports showing a total of $4,400,000,000 during 1929, an increase of $909,000,000 over the preceding year and only slightly below the 1926 figure, which was the highest since 1920.

Because of the increased value of imports this country's balance of trade
last year fell below zero, but amounted to $548,000,000.

High interest rates and stock speculation in the United States during the first ten months of the year served as a magnet, the department said, to cause an excess of gold imports over exports in 1929 by $175,000,000, in contrast with a net export of $382-000,000 in 1928. During the last two months of the year, however, exports of gold outstripped imports.

New Premier and De Rivera
Explain Spain's New Order

Damaso Berenguer, new premier of Spain, outlines his official program in the following article. Even a brief review of the extraordinary career of the successor of the dictator, Primo De Rivera, throws a strong light on the great change in the government of Spain. In 1921, General Berenguer was high commissioner in Morocco, when the Spanish army met with disaster in that country. Recalled to Madrid for trial, many of the general's fellow countrymen believed he would be shot, but the war tribunal actually decided to remove him from the active list of the army was punishment enough. In November, 1924, the new premier was sentenced to six months' confinement at Fort Guadalupe Fuen-terabia, for being present at a public meeting when the government of Primo De Rivera was criticized. When Primo De Rivera resigned last week, ending his six-year dictatorship, King Alfonso asked General Berenguer to form a government. The new premier assumed office last Friday.
De Rivera, in the second story gives his reasons for resigning.

MADRID, Feb. 2.—A dictatorial regime, however mildly it may be exercised, however beneficial it may be to a country from a material point of view, cannot, must not, be other than a circumstantial regime (i. e., of temporary character).

This is how General Primo De Rivera himself understood it during the last several months and thanks to his keen understanding—to which it is also just to add the great political talent of our august sovereign—the dictatorial regime has come to an end without the slightest complication.

What in many other countries would have provoked great crises and even sanguinary civil strife has been done in Spain in the most peaceful manner—as if it had been a government of simple parliamentary government being replaced by another.

Autocracy Impossible.
No one will deny the good intentions,
the talents and the patriotism of the Marquis De Estella (Primo De Rivera) and I am convinced all will recognize the great services he has rendered to the country.

However, as all humanity is imperfect, the Marquis De Estella has not yet now understood that a dictatorship indefinitely prolonged does not lead anywhere.

Perhaps some stable governments
are indispensable for the tranquillity
of a country.

U. S. MILLIONAIRES
NUMBER 40,000

One or Two Considered in Billionaire Class on Basis of Latest Tax Returns.

BY JOSEPH S. WASNEY,
United News Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The United States has one or two billionaires and about 40,000 millionaires, according to statistics of income for 1928 issued tonight by the treasury department.

The statistics showed that 496 persons paid income tax on incomes that totaled more than $1,000,000 during 1928, the largest number in this class of wealth ever reported. In 1927 there were but 290 persons paying taxes on incomes of more than $1,000,000.

Treasury officials estimated that the majority of people who paid taxes on $500,000 or more could be rated as millionaires. An income of this size rates a $1,000,000 principal, although many of these incomes consist of salaries rather than returns on invested capital.

Income tax returns filed last year showed 241 people had incomes between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000; 105
between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000;
and 2,000,000; 89 between $2,000,
000 and $3,000,000; 20 between $3, 000,000 and $4,000,000; 17 between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000; and 24 reported incomes of more than $5,000, 000 for the year 1928.

There were 4,050,550 individuals who filed income tax returns last year on 1928 incomes, but only 2,434, 640 had taxable incomes. The aggregate net income was $24,625,488,175
and the tax liability was $1,142,250, 780. There was a decrease of 71,283 in the number of returns filed, as compared with the previous year, but an increase in income of $2,052,170,268
and therefore an increase in taxes collected of $316,014,283.

The average net income for 1928 was $6,078,143 and the average amount of tax liability was calculated at $281.97, or an average tax rate of 4.64 per cent, the statistics showed.
Corporations filed 473,533 income tax returns for 1928, of which 267, 521 showed net incomes amounting to $9,537,533,143 on which taxes of $1, 050,302,096 were paid.

Of the 267,521 returns, the unprecedented prosperity in 1928 accounted for the large number of millionaires and the huge tax returns. They pointed out that in total income reports $10-263,517,251 was from wages and salaries, $3,288,963,184 from business; $2,943,173,181 from profit from sale of real estate, stocks and bonds, and $1,843,339,590 from capital net gain from sales of assets held more than two years.

Why I Resigned

BY PRIMO DE RIVERA.
(Special Cable Dispatch to The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance.) (Copyright, 1930, in all countries by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

MADRID, Feb. 2.—When I took power I declared that the dictatorship would last only three months and I was sincere in my belief then.

My only intention was to save Spain
from anarchy, which was enveloping it with gigantic strides. I don't think the army should meddle in politics
when statesmen fulfill their duties, but in the Spain of 1923 there was rank mismanagement and the government enjoyed no prestige. As nobody made any efforts, I undertook the inevitable surgical operation.

In the first moment of enthusiasm
I thought three months would suffice to re-establish order and solve the grave problems pending, but I soon saw the reality, which proved to me that to create a new Spain neither three months nor three years would be sufficient.

Not Afraid of Defeat.
Although I pacified Morocco, and restored authority to law and order in public affairs, I was firmly convinced a dictatorship, whether military or civil, should be extended only sufficiently long enough to do those necessary things, although on another occasion I stated that a century of mismanagement might necessitate a century of strong government.

Perhaps some stable governments
are indispensable for the tranquillity
of a country.

If I did not hold any elections, it would not be because I was afraid of defeat, which was impossible, but because of my profound conviction of the necessity of a parliamentary democracy
as then existed in Spain.

I do not in fact believe that a parliamentary system based on parties more or less arbitrarily constituted, and on personal groups around any leading men, reflects the opinion or the interests of the country. It was my duty to try to give a useful life to Spain.

See sufficient to know I could not

Schoolgirl Found
Working as Servant

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 2.—(AP)— Identified by Philadelphia police as Miss Helen Buxton, 20-year-old student from the Woods school at Langhorne, Pa., last Thursday, was reunited with her parents here today.

The girl was working at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Kraft as a domestic at a nominal wage and was discovered when shown a reproduction of her photograph in the Sunday papers.

Kraft notified the girl's parents,
Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Buxton, who resident of Newport News, Va., in Trenton, N. J. They had heard reports that their daughter had been seen there and had asked the aid of police to find her.

Reporters were with Dr. Buxton when he met his daughter at the Kraft home today and they quoted
her in part as follows:
"I was tired of school. I wanted to work for my living. I never had done anything like that but I was determined to try it. Of course I was not used to work but it was not so bad."

Trial of John Brady
Expected To End Today

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 2.—(AP)— District Judge J. D. Moore today prepared his charge to the jury in the trial of John W. Brady, former Texas appellate court justice, charged with the slaying of his wife, Delia Highsmith, 28-year-old capitol stenographer, and arguments in the case were expected to begin tomorrow.

The 59-year-old defendant who is on trial in the courtroom where he began a career which eventually led to the bench of the appellate court, was visited in his cell by his wife today.

Testimony was completed in the trial late yesterday, the state still contending that Brady in a fit of jealousy stabbed the woman to death on the night of November 9, last.
Testimony was introduced at the trial
to show that Brady had been intimate with Miss Highsmith and that his wife knew of his relations with the stenographer.

CHICAGO COUNCIL
TO ACCEPT FUND
CITIZENS RAISED

Situation Grows So Deperate City Is Ready To Accept Supervision.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(AP)—With the city's financial condition growing worse daily and with other relief plans crumbling one by one, the city council today began to look more favorably on the citizens' committee offer to take the local governments over until taxes start coming in.

Alderman John S. Clark, chairman of the city council finance committee, announced his intention of asking that body to name a committee Tuesday to meet with Silas Strawn, head of the relief organization.

Alderman Clark, who has become leader of the working majority in the council's wrangles over financial matters, predicted that the committee he proposed would make every effort to effect an agreement.

"As for their (the citizens' committee) request, that the expenditure of money be carefully supervised, I think that is only fair and right since, after all, it is their money that will be spent," Clark said.

It was this point of supervision that caused the city council, as well as the board of education to shy at the proposal, which was first made more than a week ago. At that time, many public officials expressed the fear that acceptance of the plan would bring about a dictatorship.

Since then, however, many disappointing factors have entered the tangle. A conference of taxing officials called by Governor Louis Emmerson found that tax bills could not be mailed before June 1 and it has since developed that even this prediction may have been too optimistic. Delay of nearly two years in the collection of taxes, due to complete revaluation of property, is blamed for the plight of the city and county.

However, the city council and county employees, most of them unpaid since January 1 and some even longer, could receive their salaries in full only if the city and county were able to give out the same old line of the city's corporation counsel that such a procedure would be legal.

This budget was immediately punctured by the Chicago and Cook County Bankers' Association notice to its 180 member banks advising against cashing such warrants or accepting checks as collateral. Directors of the bankers' association said paying county and city employees in fiat money would only make local conditions more complex.

Seer of Seers

Ground Hog Predicts Six
More Weeks of Winter
for Atlanta.

Mr. Groundhog emerged Sunday morning at an hour when most folks were asleep at church, looked at the little ice lingering on the hill just above his liberal home and blinked his eyes as the rays of the sun, melting Atlanta's biggest snow away, beat down upon him.

He saw his shadow and in his own peculiar style started humming something about his shadow and himself.
He curled his furry tail and dashed back into his hole, leaving behind him nothing less than the dire prophecy that Atlanta is due to get six
more weeks of winter.

During his short visit to the out-world Sunday morning, Mr. Groundhog gave out the important announcement that henceforth he would not get up in the middle of his winter sleep to give out the same old line of hope about six more weeks of winter. He said that in the future the first of April would be the day he would emerge from winter quarters and make a forecast.

"For more than a million years,"
the seer said disgustedly as he rubbed his eyes and gazed at the faithful layer of about his burrow to get the ultimate word. "I have been getting up in the middle of winter to satisfy the curiosity of a parcel of human beings, but I have never been paid or not they could lay aside their heavies. I'm getting old. I'm sick of it. This is the last time. Come around April 1 and see this thing."

As he waddled back into his cave to finish his nap, he said, "Goodbye boys, until April 1, 1931." It was predicted, however, that next year's forecast would be given February 2, regardless of the old chuck's ultimatum.

Hardly had the groundhog disappeared before the thermometer started to rise and, save for ultra fashionable people, top coats were taboos Sunday afternoon. The mercury ranged from low 42 to a high of 58 Sunday.
However, there is some cloudy weather on the cards and the weatherman says rain is likely today.

In 1 Hour Buckthorn Bark and Glycerin Help Constipation

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York.

Surprising QUICK Action

The simple buckthorn bark, glycerin, saline compound (known as Adlerika), acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels, usually in just ONE hour! It often brings out foul matter you would never believe was in your system. This old matter may have poisoned you for months and caused GAS, sour stomach, headache or nervousness.

Try this simple proof: Take any medicine which acts on lower bowels only, as most laxatives do. After your bowels have moved, take Adlerika and you will be astonished at how much MORE sour, old matter and GAS is brought out!

Removes Stomach Gas

Just ONE spoonful Adlerika relieves stomach gas and that bloated feeling. Many who have wasted years taking pills or remedies which clean only PART of bowels, are astonished at the quick benefit from even the first dose of Adlerika. For gas, intestinal stasis and chronic constipation, it has no equal. Be sure to get genuine Adlerika in tin-folled bottles.

Take this to any drugist and get a 15c discount on your first bottle of Adlerika. TO DRUGIST: We give you 15c cash for this. Not returned without customer's name and address. PLAINLY written so we can write them. Adlerika Co., Dept. D, St. Paul, Minn.

World's Greatest Examples of Art Topic of Lecture

With one of the most important exhibitions of the year newly hung and with an important lecture in the series being given by Dr. Palmer Skidmore, director, scheduled, a crowd of 2,000 art lovers attended the Sunday afternoon activities at the High Museum of Art.

Director Skidmore, in his lecture, discussed a number of the masterpieces of art in the leading galleries of the world. He discussed the varying methods used by different artists and at different periods, and illustrated the manner of each individual in treating line, spot and pattern. A collection of 25 of the paintings of Frederick Muhaupt, A. N. A., was opened at the museum on Saturday, to continue through February. Mr. Muhaupt is famous for his marine pictures in oils, chiefly subjects taken from Gloucester and the fishing boats there. In the present collection there are, however, three exceedingly interesting pictures painted at St. Ives, England, and a few landscapes. Landscape painting is a new departure for Mr. Muhaupt, and, judging by these first examples shown here, an exceptionally happy one.

The museum is open free to the public at all times. Hours are from 10 to 4 on week days, from 2 to 5 on Sunday afternoons and on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights.

Dr. McElveen Speaks On 'Lovingkindness'

In his sermon on "Lovingkindness" at the morning service of the United Congregational church at the Woman's Club the new minister, the Rev. W. T. McElveen, said:

"Men formerly told their fellowmen that they were not thoroughly saved unless they were 'willing to be damned for the glory of God.' It would be interesting to know what these unconscious blasphemers meant by the glory of God. God doesn't damn anybody. When we do, He rejoices. It is not His will that anybody should perish. Perhaps these blasphemers meant that God dwells in self-contained aloofness, in regal splendor, in some place beyond the blue of the sky.

"God's glory consists in His helpfulness. He is more desirous of looking upon men with kindness than in having men look upon Him in admiration. The phrase that God does things for His own glory must not be interpreted as if God was a vain, egotistic or selfish God. God finds more pleasure in giving than in getting. Nobody knows God aright who does not know God as Lovingkindness. God and love and kindness are so identical that if we are really loving, and actually kind, we know God."

IMPEACHMENT ASKED FOR CITY ELECTRICIAN

file with council this afternoon, following the inspection of the city hall. "In Sunday's Constitution Mr. Hendricks defends his stand in not inspecting the electrical work in the new Atlanta city hall, giving his son as no permit. I wish to say in connection with this subject that the electrical inspector's office was furnished with a set of plans and specifications, which Mr. Turner and myself went over very carefully, and Mr. Turner made what suggestions he thought might assist us in the installation, and simplify maintenance of the job after its completion. We also furnished the electrical inspector's office with a schedule of when the floor slabs would be poured, as furnished us by the general contractor, which was carried out through the erection of the structure. Mr. Turner made an inspection of this work every day, up to and including the last day he was in office. Mr. Hendricks admits he has the plans and specifications; it is strange what has become of the other records of this job.

"When Mr. Hendricks assumed his duties on January 7 he knew that Atlanta was building a new city hall and, if he had the interest of Atlanta at heart, he would have taken up this inspection where his predecessor left off, and if he found no records of this job, endeavor to straighten the matter out then. Instead of doing this he devoted his efforts to trying to compel a few contractors to take a new examination under him, charging that there were irregularities in their former examination, which charges he could not substantiate in the courts, and was then enjoined from molesting the said contractors about examination.

"He next applied his efforts to the records of his predecessor in office, where he again charged there were great irregularities. Mr. R. C. Turner, his predecessor, and Sam Donelson were then indicted for embezzlement on several charges. Mr. Hendricks employed a special counsel to prosecute the case, but did not take the stand to substantiate the charges he had made against Mr. Turner, and Mr. Turner was acquitted of these charges. It would seem that Mr. Hendricks should have been satisfied with this case and, if his salary is so meager, as he states, he would have saved himself this expense.

Visited Job Last July. "Mr. Hendricks visited the city hall job in July, when he heard that someone was pulling wire that was not Okonite. As it happened, we had not received our wire at that time. I am advised that he told Mr. Sweet, superintendent for the National Construction Company on the city hall, that he was not going to pass the work in the city hall.

"He next interested himself in the controversy of what kind of wire we were going to use in the city hall, a matter which he had nothing to do with, long as the wire met the requirements of the national electrical code. After general council passed an ordinance excluding the heads of departments from council meetings, except at their request, he spent his time sitting in the windows of the council room during the meetings. I feel, as a taxpayer, that he should have been devoting this time to his duties as other department heads were doing, instead of wasting his time on other matters which were not in his line of duty. I feel he has grossly misused the time the city has paid him for and, if that time had been applied to his duties, he would have had ample time to perform the inspections that he should.

"Therefore, I am charging that Hendricks is unfit to hold office as superintendent of electrical affairs, by his gross neglect of duty and am asking the city council to investigate these charges and, if substantiated, take the necessary action to remove Hendricks from his office as city electrician."

Interracial Body To Open Campaign for $1,360,000

The commission on interracial cooperation announced Sunday a $1,360,000 campaign to carry on its work for the next 10 years. Dr. R. H. Moton, principal of the Tuskegee institute, Alabama, has accepted leadership of the campaign with a committee of several financiers, philanthropists and educators. Organized in 1919 by the late John J. Egan and several other southerners, the commission on interracial cooperation now extends into 13 southern states and its methods have been adopted in South Africa, where similar racial problems also prevail. The commission has sought, chiefly through a conference and co-operation of white and negro leaders, to correct oppressive conditions affecting negroes and improve the interracial attitudes out of which unfavorable conditions grow. The present head of the commission is Dr. W. C. Jackson, vice president of the North Carolina College for Women, and its executive is Dr. Will W. Alexander, of Atlanta. The membership of the commission comprises 100 representative men and women of both races and its affiliated committees include more than 1,000 white persons and negroes.

The opening session on Friday and the two meetings Saturday will be held here, while the Sunday morning service will be held at Ebenezer, Ga. Sunday afternoon a junior-intermediate rally will be held at Rincon, Ga. The Lutheran parishes in Savannah will send several delegates. The Georgia Lutheran synod will meet in Macon next week.

Boykin Declines To Place Faith In 'Confession'

Until he receives full details of the purported confession of George H. Goggins that he killed Bert Donaldson, investigator for Solicitor-General John A. Boykin in 1928, the latter will not pursue any investigation of the case. Goggins, in jail at Lexington, Ky., on auto theft charges, Saturday night said that he shot Donaldson to death for $500 paid him by Jack Lance.

"I don't think there's much to that confession, or alleged confession," Solicitor-General Boykin told The Constitution Sunday. "I made a very thorough investigation at the time Donaldson was killed and nothing I can now recall in any way points to this person. As I recall it, he has been wanted here on other charges. Until I am advised of the details of the confession, however," the solicitor general added, "I do not care to express any opinion other than that I doubt this man Goggins had anything to do with killing Donaldson."

VAPEX

Discovered in England . . . imported from England

... NOW ON TWO CONTINENTS, VAPEX IS THE ACCEPTED RELIEF FOR COLDS

ENGLAND discovered this modern way to fight a cold. During the war, with a terrible epidemic of influenza raging, chemists in a government laboratory completely escaped infection. Tests proved that the chemicals with which they worked gave off a healing vapor which killed the germs of common colds. . . . These same chemicals, greatly concentrated, are in Vapex today. . . . The Vapex formula is a jealously guarded secret. All the Vapex essence used in America is imported from England. There, as well as here, Vapex is widely used as a swift, sure relief for colds. A drop on your handkerchief in the morning gives you all-day-long comfort. The high concentration of Vapex makes the vapor last. Use it at night, too, to let you sleep. Put a drop at each end of your pillow. The vapor is delightfully refreshing. . . . Always insist on V-A-P-E-X in the trim, white box with the green triangle. Never accept a cheaper substitute. A bottle of Vapex contains fifty applications and costs only $1.50, one application of Vapex only costs 3c. Surely that is not too much to pay for all-day-long relief. . . . E. The pace-setters Keeping-Up-With-the-Joneses is no mere vagary of the cartooner. It is an actual condition in every city, town, village and hamlet of this great country.

There is a Jones in every locality to set the pace. But the average Jones is not a rich man—far from it. He has a good job, he dresses well, he is a good talker and splendid company. Jones is always the gentleman, welcomed at business conventions, public dinners and social gatherings alike. Mrs. Jones is envied as a successful hostess. Every woman in her set, and out of it, seeks bids to her bridge parties and other social functions. Their home is cozy, tastefully furnished and provided with most of the modern conveniences.

"How do they do it?" ask the neighbors. "We have as much money as they. Socially we are their equals." But without seeming to try, without putting on any "dog," the Joneses set the pace just the same. They have learned from reading advertisements how to have many desirable things at little cost. They keep up to date on almost everything—just reading advertisements.

Keeping-up-with-the-Joneses is a comparatively easy matter—other things being equal. Read The Constitution advertisements regularly. Study them. Remember what you learn. Then, when you are in the market for anything, you will know, just as they do, what kind to buy. Soon you'll find yourself saving money, yet having more than you ever had. You'll find folks wondering how you do it. Oh, yes! It's fairly easy, if you make the most of your opportunities.

The Constitution advertisements are opportunities . . . study them to your own advantage.

Chest's Threatened Failure Deplored By J. P. Faulkner

Alarmed at Menace, Atlanta Clubwomen Will Meet and Discuss Situation Today.

Women To Meet

Alarmed at the menace of collapse facing the Atlanta Community Chest and the 39 societies of helpfulness which it maintains, leading club officials have called a mass meeting of Atlanta club women for discussion of the situation and for search of a remedy at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. The meeting is to be held under auspices of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Mrs. S. F. Boykin is president, and all federated club women are invited.

"Failure of the Atlanta Community Chest or any serious retrenchment of any of the work of its agencies at this time would be a major tragedy to the city and county and also to the state," said James P. Faulkner, executive secretary of the Georgia department of public welfare, in a message Sunday to E. A. Thorndike, chairman of the executive committee of the Chest.

The message was inspired by the proclamation of the executive committee which appealed for help in a desperate financial emergency, resulting from inadequate public support and from the elimination of city appropriations, and threatening the actual existence of Atlanta's organizations of human helpfulness.

This proclamation included the warning that unless help is available in increased contributions by individuals and in public appropriations, many of the agencies may be forced to suspend, and their thousands of beneficiaries thrown upon the public.

The message from Mr. Faulkner deplored this possibility. "The state department of public welfare is very much concerned over the situation you are confronting in your efforts properly to finance the work of your organization," he wrote.

"Any failure of the Atlanta Community Chest will seriously affect the morale of social work in this department and among its affiliated organizations throughout the state.

"This department has excellent opportunity to appraise the work of the various agencies of the Chest as well as the administrative offices, and should like to convey to you something of the appreciation we have for the splendid work being done in Atlanta by the agencies supported and backed by your organization."

A large part of the public and most governmental officials are still unable to appreciate fully the scientific nature of the work being done by private agencies such as are under direction of the Chest. Too often the only conception that officialdom has of social work is the giving of temporary relief.

"Organized social agencies conceive of relief as a first aid measure and always administer it if necessary and then follow it with a proper social diagnosis and adjustments which correspond to the treatment and care that physicians, hospitals, and health authorities give in case of sickness and injury.

"One of the greatest needs is correct and constant interpretation to public and governmental agencies of the real constructive nature of social work."

Guild of St. Luke's To Give Play Tonight

An entertainment featuring the Tech Glee Club and a play by the Semon-White Studios will be given in the ballroom of the new Shrine mosque at 8 o'clock tonight under the auspices of the St. Catherine Guild of St. Luke's Episcopal church, and the proceeds will go for the benefit of the Henrietta Engston Memorial Hospital for Children.

The St. Catherine's Guild has been active in behalf of the institution since its opening in 1928. The Semon-White play will star Jacqueline Gullatt and little Eugene Adams. A night club scene also is to be enacted by local sub-beds and college boys.

The gowns to be worn in this scene have been loaned through the courtesy of Rich's, Inc.

Bridge tables will be set for those who wish to play cards, according to Mrs. J. L. Wright, president of the guild, and Mrs. Eugene Cronheim and Mrs. A. Q. Smith, co-workers in arranging the entertainment.

Patrons of the affair are Mr. and Mrs. John M. Slaton Rev. and Mrs. N. R. High Moor, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Alston, Mr. and Mrs. David Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Finley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hawkins, and Mrs. William Bailey Lamar.

Negro Badly Wounded In Attack on Officer

Arthur Palmer, negro, wanted by police to answer charges of violating the prohibition law and carrying a concealed weapon, is in Grady hospital, probably fatally wounded, as a result of a pistol wound he received Sunday morning when he is reported to have attempted a knife attack on Special Officer R. W. Cassell.

Cassell, driver of a Grady ambulance, spied the negro standing on the corner of Armstrong and Pratt streets and recognized him as one wanted by W. D. Nash, patrolman assigned to night duty at Grady. He stopped the ambulance, arrested the negro and put him in the back. When the machine had started, Cassell reported, the negro lurched toward him with a knife and was about to strike when the officer turned and fired, one shot taking effect in the abdomen and the other in the left arm.

Palmer, if he survives, will be given a hearing February 14. He is booked at the police station on charges of disorderly conduct and attempted assault with a notation to hold for charges which Patrolman Nash will formally prefer.

Local Traffic Club To Install Officers

An inaugural business meeting and installation of 1936 officers will be held at the February luncheon meeting of the Traffic Club of Atlanta at 12:30 o'clock today at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

There will be no formal speeches, but all members will be given a chance to be heard on business matters that will come before the meeting. There will be special entertainment features and special music.

H. A. Manning, the seventh president of the club, will be installed at today's luncheon. His fellow officers: N. G. Skillman, first vice president; C. R. Cunningham, second vice president; E. B. Porter, secretary and treasurer, and the following directors: T. B. Curtis, M. M. Emmert, F. C. Cheney and P. A. Wright.

Wahabis Slaughter Trans-Jordan Tribes

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(United News.) Wholesale slaughter of trans-Jordan tribesmen by invading Wahabis from Nejd was reported today in an Exchange telegraph dispatch from Jerusalem.

The Wahabis, under nominal allegiance to the stern Sultan Ibn Saud, were said to have killed approximately 450 trans-Jordanians. The British commander in Trans-Jordan, moved forces from Amman (Philadelphia) southward to Ma'an, in the southern Dead sea region, fearing counter raids by the assaulted tribes.

Trans-Jordan lies north and east of Nejd, where Ibn Saud has put down one rebellion after another. Some of the revolts started because the sultan's Arab subjects refused to abide by frontier lines set up under British mandates and held inviolate by Ibn.

HARDMAN ORDERS PROBE IN LYNCHING

Irwin County Sheriff and Solicitor-General To Make Report to Governor.

Governor L. G. Hardman announced today that he had telegraphed Sheriff W. C. Tyler and Solicitor-General Roy Foy, of Irwin county, to investigate the lynching yesterday of Jimmy Levine, negro, in Ocilla.

The governor said he had instructed Mr. Foy, who lives in Sylvester, and Sheriff Tyler, in Ocilla, to report to him the results of their probe. Until he had received their reports, Governor Hardman said, the state would take no action in the lynching.

"Any action of the state," the governor declared, "will depend upon what the sheriff and the solicitor-general report to me."

Levine was burned by a mob estimated at 500 yesterday morning after being taken from Sheriff Tyler's automobile in the center of Ocilla. The sheriff had arrested the negro in Mystic, Ga., on a charge of attacking and killing a 14-year-old white girl, and was taking him to the Irwin county jail.

IRWIN COUNTY OFFICERS TO OPEN PROBE.

OCILLA, Ga., Feb. 2.—(P)—Irwin county officials said today that an investigation would be made of the lynching here yesterday of Jimmy Levine, negro, but no members of the mob of 500 had yet been arrested or officially identified.

Levine, who had been arrested on a charge of attacking and killing a 14-year-old white girl, was taken from the hands of Sheriff W. C. Tyler in the center of town and carried to a spot about 10 miles away and burned. The sheriff, who was taking Levine to jail after arresting him in Mystic, reported his hand was slightly bruised by the mob which took the negro.

Solicitor-General Roy Foy, who lives in Sylvester, said today that he would come here Thursday to begin an investigation. He said he could not come earlier because of court duties elsewhere.

Judge R. E. Eno, of the Tifton circuit, which includes Irwin county, said he would consult with Mr. Foy tomorrow on steps to be taken. He said he had just returned from Atlanta and had not yet been able to take any action on the lynching.

The sheriff's office reported today that no headway had been made in identifying members of the mob. Sheriff Tyler said there was not light enough at the time Levine was taken from him to recognize the lynchers.

The girl the negro was charged with attacking and killing was the daughter of a prominent planter. Her body was found Friday and approximately 1,000 men from this and Berrien and Coffee counties joined in searching for her assailant. Sheriff Tyler, however, found Levine in Mystic and said he confessed to the assault and slaying.

The burning of Levine is reported to be the first lynching in Georgia since 1926.

Atlanta people no longer feel miserable and needlessly risk pneumonia by neglecting colds. For hospital doctors have made it tempting to end colds promptly at home by a quick method used to help reduce fever, remove congestion and clear out the cold.

Miss Alice Ryan, hospital nurse, contracted a severe head and chest cold. Examination by the doctor showed a pulse of 86, respiration 20 and temperature 100 degrees.

Within a short while after the doctor gave her double strength doses of Ayer's Pectoral she was surprised to find how quickly the cold started to clear up. That night she slept comfortably and woke up feeling greatly relieved. When she returned for medical examination the next day, her temperature, pulse and respiration were normal again and Cherry Pectoral had cleared up the cold completely.

Flat work means such pieces as sheets, tablecloths, pillow slips, towels, bedspreads. Wearing apparel means such articles as washable dresses, shirts, children's dresses, underwear, stockings.

A family wash service to fit every family budget.

WET WASH does washing only, but does that perfectly. Every piece washed gently in mild suds and hundreds of gallons of fresh water. Every piece sterilized. The bundle comes back slightly damp, ready for ironing. You can get no finer washing service at any price.

DRY WASH washes every piece, irons flat work and returns wearing apparel dry and ready to iron. (This is sometimes called Rough Dry Service.) The washing is gentle and thorough as in all family wash services. Flat pieces are ironed immaculately.

HO-MESTIC is a low-priced all-ironed service. It washes every piece with greatest care till spotlessly clean and sterilized. The flat work is ironed fine and smooth. The wearing apparel is ironed. Ho-mestic is a practical service for most homes.

PRIM-PREST finishes everything exquisitely. All pieces are washed sweet and clean and sterilized. Then they are carefully ironed by expert hand ironers, who give the daintiest possible finish. In Prim-Prest, laundering is truly a fine art.

and welfare of countries, it is impossible to return to autocracy, thus leaving out the will of the public. A parliament, elected under one system of another, cannot be eliminated from our national life, and therefore the fundamental point of my program consists in re-establishing liberty, so as to obtain much desired juridical, constitutional and normal conditions, and to hold legislative elections by which the Spanish nation will be able freely to manifest its will.

I cannot indicate the date at this moment. Everything depends upon circumstances and the method which will be adopted. It depends also upon the conditions in which the country is situated.

What I can say unhesitatingly is that I am a constitutional man and that within the shortest possible time allowed by the material and moral conditions of the country, Spain will return absolutely to the constitution of 1876, which ruled for about half a century—until the advent of the dictatorship.

To Make People Supreme.

If no unforeseen obstacles arise, and we hope none will arise while we are executing this program, there certainly will be no disagreement between the people and the government in its aspirations—that is, nearly the whole country—except in regard to the date of the election.

I can declare now that all the facilities which the government meets with in its administration will be taken advantage of to accelerate the realization of all their aspirations.

One point of our program, which may particularly interest foreign countries, is the re-establishment of the ministry of foreign affairs, which was suppressed by General Primo de Rivera and transformed into a general secretaryship to the president of the council.

We consider that such a ministry has such a delicate mission to fulfill that far from reducing its importance its importance should be increased.

Furthermore, this department is the oldest in Spain and has the longest tradition.

To Stabilize Exchange.

Thanks to the spirit of sacrifice displayed by a majority of the men I have called to me, I have succeeded in forming a government in less than two days—a government which can inspire full confidence in Spain and abroad.

The country will regain its constitutional life in its entirety in due time and without perilous haste, but at the same time without unnecessary delay. Abroad we shall scrupulously respect all international agreements.

The new ministry of finance is facing an important problem in the question of the rate of exchange. I hope financial markets abroad will soon understand that the present quotations of Spanish currency are unjustly low.

If during the last few weeks, owing to the uncertain political situation, the reserved attitude of the public in regard to the peseta is understandable up to a certain point, with the arrival of a constitutional government the position has now entirely changed.

As dictatorships do not usually and peacefully, it might have been feared during the last few days have proved that this fear of no foundation.

The future presents itself with absolute clarity and Spain is about to return to the constitution of 1876, which will give satisfaction to an immense majority of the country. I hold the deepest conviction that the transition will take place without the slightest difficulty.

The days of uncertainty have gone and the former fears no longer exist. As the fall of the peseta really had no other reason than a political one—inasmuch as our finances are sound and the budget was balanced without deficit—the rate of exchange must naturally improve.

At the end of six years, four months and 13 days of the dictatorship, the government which has taken its place is facing a great and delicate task. We shall have to revise the work of the dictatorship—that is to say, consolidate some cases and adapt and rectify others.

And now, with the help of God, we are looking forward to a prosperous, free and happy Spain.

people—on absolute unanimity of public opinion. This was impossible to gether with the adherence of the army which had raised me to power.

Country Appreciated Him.

But if I do not believe in the efficiency of a parliamentarian system alone, I do not believe either that one man must govern without the assistance of an assembly representing the vital forces of the country—certainly not on the basis of parties, but on the basis of professions.

For that purpose I instituted the national assembly with consultative powers, which always lent loyal and efficient assistance to the government, giving it the benefit of its technical knowledge.

My work during six years and the stimulations of the dictatorial regime have been fruitful and I have no doubt at this moment that my countrymen will recognize it, if not at once, at least at some later time.

The roads, schools, bridges and improvements of a like character which we have created will always be an asset on the ledger sheet of our activities. I therefore do not fear the verdict of history.

I recognize that in the most important matter we have made a mistake. I refer to exchange. When the exchange pound sterling fell below 28, instead of taking advantage of the opportune moment and stabilizing the currency, we were too optimistic and we already saw the peseta at par.

Wanting legal stability, the Spanish currency had to suffer and hence in consequence our artificial speculation. Not only was this due to a wish for profit, but also owing to the fact that various outside interests were hit by one of our most important provisions—into the details of which I do not wish to go at this moment. Because of this various phenomena arose during last year and gave more or less the impression abroad of an uncertain future for this country. It is to these circumstances that I must attribute the present value of the peseta on the markets. I say markets because it can easily be shown that the then gold value of the peseta was much above the present exchange value.

Press Caused Withdrawal.

I recognize, however, that the immediate cause of my resignation was the official article in the papers of Sunday, January 26. It is my custom to work very hard during the early hours of the morning. On January 26, I went at about 3 a. m., an official note to the press information bureau without consulting the ministers and without having had time to read it again.

In that note I asked the heads of the army and navy whether I could depend on their support. Since then I have been realizing that the note was a tactical error. The reply of the heads of the army could be only that they would comply with government enjoying the confidence of the king, who, according to the constitution, appoints and dismisses his ministers of his own free will.

It also understood how that note could alarm and agitate the army and navy.

There was no necessity for the note. I understand this now and frankly confess it.

But even if my resignation had an immediate cause, it was really my intention to leave power soon—indeed I intended to do so some months ago.

When history is studied we discover how many sanguinary revolutions have been caused by the general belief among dictators that they are more or less immortal, or, at any rate, could not be replaced. Fortunately, from the very commencement, I understood how fragile are the life and health of man and I always thought there would be someone to replace me. I truly hoped new men would arise, not connected with the artifices of political life, something to which I neither could nor would turn.

For some time past my decision to retire at the opportune moment had been irrevocable. On various occasions I declared publicly that I would

Regarding the particular personality of General Berenguer, he inspires me with full confidence due to the tranquility of his mind, his culture, his chivalry, his patriotism and his professed monarchical sentiments.

In assuming power, General Berenguer is making a real sacrifice, as the situation is a delicate one and all the difficulties the dictatorship intended to remove are still in existence.

Therefore, I believe that for a long time to come the dictatorship system in Spain will have to be continued with the assistance of the government and a deliberative assembly, to a great extent agreement with Washington beforehand," writes Mr. Garvin in the latest observer. "A war between the Americans and ourselves is an impossibility politically because for the different reasons affecting all the dominions and, as such a war would mean the certain dissolution of that British empire for which the fleet exists to preserve." In that flash of truth Mr. Garvin illuminates the fundamental of fundamentals in the British-American situation.

hegemony on the seas and would seek to fortify this hegemony by a five-power naval treaty in London.

Two facts confront inquirers here relative to the British-American intentions in the sphere of foreign policy: first, that the two governments base themselves immovably upon their oaths never to resort to war as an instrument of national policy—a condition which forbids them from attacking each other or anybody else. Second, that neither government will adopt any coercive method against a non-aggressive state such as would be applied in the British-American dictatorship of the seas.

Great Britain and America, it does not seem premature to say, are convincing the world at last not only that they themselves are determined to be friends but that they are correspondingly responsive to all they can to bring about a general international friendship and a consequent gradual disarmament by sea, land and air.

February . . . But Not Leap Year

---and advertisers are not "leaping" into untested advertising media this year!

Business prophets and business executives are one in believing that 1930 will be a good business year. But not a boom year. Not a year to spend money recklessly.

And so they are pinning their faith on time-tested advertising media. Especially newspapers. For with one month of 1930 in the records, it is apparent that newspaper advertising will chronicle a healthy increase in volume this year over last.

Common Sense Dictates the Best Buy in the Atlanta Market

Advertisers are taking a leaf out of the thrifty housewife's notebook; they are buying their 1930 advertising with an eye to getting the most for their money.

In the Atlanta daily newspaper market, The Constitution offers "most for the money." The largest circulation of any daily in this territory---the lowest cost per thousand of circulation---by far the greatest reader-confidence and interest, built up over a period of 62 years!

If you want YOUR sales to leap ahead in 1930, you will use the advertising columns of The Atlanta Constitution.

Crackers' Option on Minneapolis Players Is Club's 'Ace in Hole'

ALABAMA TAKES LEAD IN CONFERENCE

Down around Rochelle, Ga., the birds (meaning partridges) are smarter than in any section of Georgia.

I am told that in an intelligence test conducted by one of the young lady teachers in the consolidated high school here recently, five quail selected from one of the largest coveys in the county, graded 128 out of a possible 130.

That is about the average mentality exhibited by an adult Creek Indian on the warpath, or a Chinaman in a poker game, or a debutante handling the reins over her most important date. I mean they are that smart.

THEY DIG IN.

The quail around Rochelle, for instance, do not lounge around the sedge grass hillsides. They do not play craps in cotton patches. They never hold their sewing circles in the open where one can shoot freely and mark them down as they scatter.

Instead, they meet on grass tufts in the middle of creeks and branches.

They sit around on logs surrounded on all sides by ice-cold water knee deep and protected from gunfire by a thousand saplings. Saw brier entanglements guard all approaches to their hangouts. It is claimed by some that Rochelle quail swim like ducks but that may be an exaggeration.

THE DELAYED FLUSH.

The quail of Rochelle naturally like to get out of the creek beds now and then. Do not imagine that the quail of Rochelle are timid or sissy. Far be it and to the contrary.

But as said they are smart.

So when they go out to feed they have it all worked out in case of trouble. When flushed by dogs and men, one of their number detailed for such duty rises first. The decoy bird flies straight at the hunters and aims off down the ridge all by himself looking for the world like a stray single bird. The hunters usually wheel and fire wildly.

At the sound of the guns, the rest of the covey takes off and sells out in exactly the opposite direction which usually is right back to the grass tufts of the creek bed all set about with saw brier entanglements and saplings. All the hunters ever see of the main body are their tail-fins.

SCATTER BOTH WAYS.

Granting the discomfited hunters can mark them down where they entered the branch it does not mean that the quail will be there.

Instead they probably have scattered in both directions on entering the bottom land and have hidden over 200 yards of inaccessible swamp.

Several of them probably have whipped on through and taken seats in the burned land on the other side where no dog can smell them on account of the predominance of burned grass odor.

PADDOCK PARTRIDGES.

In addition to this superior intelligence, the quail of Rochelle fly faster than any other quail. They make a carrier pigeon look like a hoot owl in flight. The quail of Rochelle hold nearly every outdoor record and made a clean sweep at the last Olympics as every one knows.

THEY HAVE TO BE SMART.

Now there is a reason for all this superior speed and intelligence among the quail of this vicinity.

The quail in the Rochelle neighborhood HAVE to be clever and fast. For the young men of Rochelle are the best wing shots in Georgia. They begin shooting where others are cleaning their guns and putting them into the case.

I am not depending on hunting yarns told by the fireside after a large meal of victuals. I am giving actual figures on two days' hunting with several of them.

There is Roy Brown, for instance, who by actual count killed a bird with EVERY OTHER SHELL HE FIRED in two days. He baffled 500 in two days of shooting at quail and doves. Charley Hunt, who is to try out as an outfielder with the Crackers, killed better than a bird with every third shell. Lon Pearce, Walter Brown, Thelbert Gamage and W. T. Standard shot at about the same rate.

The dumb clumsy coveys have been exterminated with such shooting and only the clever ones survive. That explains the gradual rise in intelligence and speed.

ACROBATIC SHOOTING.

It is a treat to see them shoot.

Roy Brown and I were hunting some singles in a creek bottom wading through water and matted grass. The dogs came to a point in the midst of a clump of cypress trees. One bird got up just as Roy was stepping over a log, and sold out due west. He half turned and stopped the bird cold. At the report of the gun two more got up from the bushes behind him and lit out eastward. Without moving his feet, Roy turned his body and got one of them.

Charley Hunt and Johnny Suggs flushed a covey that scattered in another creek bottom. They waded in after them and there among the trees Hunt killed nine straight without losing a bird. Johnny himself got both the birds at which he shot. Eleven singles in a row—that's shooting.

I could go on at length telling tales of the prowess of these young men of Rochelle in hunting quail. But I have told enough to explain why the quail of this vicinity have developed such intelligence and speed.

All the dumb birds were killed out years ago and even the intelligentia of the present generation find their way in great numbers to the supper tables of Rochelle every time the boys put the dogs in the back end of their cars and fare forth.

CRACKERS HOLD MILLER OPTION AS ACE IN HOLE

Wealth of Material at Minneapolis May Solve Problem of Dobbs.

By Ralph McGill.

That option which the Crackers have on Minneapolis players or Minneapolis cash is an ace in the hole which the Atlanta baseball club is holding on to with some enthusiasm. Reports come down that Miller Kelly, the veteran skipper of the Crackers and a life-long friend of Johnny Dobbs, Cracker pilot, has the finest lot of ball players this year he has ever had and will be turning at least a dozen of them into other channels. The Crackers can take their choice or call for cash.

CULLOP DID IT.

Atlanta got the option when Nick Cullop was sold last fall. He was sold for a cash consideration and an option on additional cash or a player. This will no doubt cause Nick Cullop some embarrassment. He sought to give the Crackers a financial kick in the pants when he went before Judge Landis claiming that he was a free agent and that the Crackers had violated the baseball laws. And now it looks as if he will be a very great help to the Crackers. They can use the cash even if they do not need the ball players.

Mr. R. J. Spiller returned yesterday from a hunting trip in south Georgia. It was with difficulty that he was steered around to a baseball conversation.

"The way our ball club stands now," he said, "it looks as if we will be able to go ahead and take the Minneapolis cash in the Cullop deal. There is no hurry about it. The Crackers will play an exhibition schedule through the south and we will have a look at the players. If we need one we can get him."

Mike Kelly is reporting 34 men this spring at the Hot Springs training camp. He is well-supplied in numbers at each position. There are 17 pitchers on the roster, eight infielders, six outfielders and a trio of catchers. The list is divided between 16 veterans and 18 rookies, most of whom are getting their first trials in the American association.

LIST OF PLAYERS.

About eight of the list are graduates from the Southern league. The personnel of the Miller list is as follows:

Catchers—Hugh McMullen, Wesley Griffin and Fred Polvort, the latter a newcomer; pitchers—Rube Benton, John Brillheart, George Dumont, Clayton Van Alstyne, Paul McCullough, Dick Morgan, Allen Benseng, John Holmes, Oscar Estrada, Fred Bonker, Richard Lundgren, L. I. Bobo, Oscar Rust, Raymond Leeds, Leon Rhodes, Harold Vandenberg and Russell Daugherty; infielders—L. J. Cotter, Elmer Votter, Frank Emmer, John Cortazzo, Dan Oberholzer, Newell Morse, Leo Norris and Mule Shirley; outfielders—Nick Cullop, Smith, Charley High, Stanley Keyes, Mike Sime and L. L. Ackerman.

Dobbs remains satisfied with his club. And there is ample reason for it. He hopes to complete his outfield with Bob Parham, who has been promised to the Crackers should he need farming out again in the opinion of the Brooklyn owners.

Climax Blethen, right-handed pitcher, who won more than 20 games for the Crackers last season, is another whom the club would like to get back. There is also a chance that another catcher will be needed.

"ACE IN HOLE."

If any of those needs arise the Crackers can get help from the Miller list. They have an ample supply in any and all departments. It is a comfortable feeling—this having an ace in the hole.

Johnny Dobbs has his club well fortified. While the managers are seeking players Dobbs is very nearly set. He needs but little, unless misfortune should arrive. If it does he will pull out the complete list, yes, it is a very comfortable feeling.

Officials Discuss Schedule Tuesday.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 2.—(AP) With a harmonious meeting forecast, club owners of the Southern association will meet here Tuesday for formal adoption of the 1930 playing schedule.

The tentative schedule formed by the schedule committee has completed its work and copies of the proposed playing dates have been sent to the various club owners and early reports indicate that but few changes will be made before the schedule is adopted.

An interesting feature of the tentative schedule concerns Sunday games. Reports indicate that every Sunday will find every club in the league scheduled. In previous seasons there have usually been several Sundays when some teams did not play.

Atlanta and Birmingham are the only cities in the league in which Sunday baseball is not permitted.

Advance reports also indicate that there will be at least some discussion of an earlier closing. The schedule committee is composed of Jack Whaley, Nashville; Tom Watkins, Memphis; and Larry Gilbert, New Orleans. The latter was named on the committee following the death of Jules Heinemann, of New Orleans.

Following the schedule discussion, which is expected to be completed in one day, the Birmingham club, last year's pennant winner, will be host at a banquet.

Marietta Quintet Wins Double Bill

MARIETTA, Ga., Feb. 2.—Marietta basketball team won a double-header Saturday night, the boys winning a close game from Rome High, 31 to 30, while the girls defeated Seventh District A. & M. co-eds, 43 to 3. The work of Anderson was outstanding for Marietta, while Moss played the best game for Rome boys.

Two Shots of Unusual Spills at Race Track

Bad spills featured the hurdle races held recently in England at Hurst park. Photographers caught two of the most unusual of them. At the top is shown "Tangira," with Jockey Crump up, or rather down, in the middle of a bad

SHUTE VICTOR IN TEXAS OPEN

Ohio Pro Leads Field To Wire To Cop $1,500 Prize.

BRECKENRIDGE PARK, San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 2.—(AP)—While a gallery of 8,000 spectators stamped in his course, Shute, slim young Columbus, Ohio professional, continued his calm, unruffled fight today to win the ninth annual Texas open tournament with a total score of 277 strokes. On his final round he took a par 71.

Late in the day, it appeared that Shute might have the $1,500 first prize taken from his grasp after he had led the field through three gruelling rounds, but he tightened up and came through with a safe margin. His total for the 72 holes was seven strokes under perfect golf for this heavily wooded and trapped course.

Three stars who threatened to pass Shute throughout today's 36 holes finished in a tie for second place, each with 280 strokes. They are Al Espinosa, Chicago; Neal McIntyre, Indianapolis; and Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del. The three divided $1,700 in prize money.

SECOND BIG PURSE. Shute's victory was his second important triumph of the winter golf tour. He picked up $3,500 in the Los Angeles open, which, with $1,500 here placed him well up in the list of money winners for the year.

Tony Manero, Elmford, N. Y., came in for a $300 out of the prize list with 284 strokes. Jack Forrester, Jackensack, N. Y., and M. Turness, Elmford, N. Y., divided $350; each had 287 strokes. Frank Walsh, Chicago; Al Watrous, Detroit; and Harry Cooper, unattached, split $325 for their 288s. There were a raft of lesser prizes, including 15 of $50 each.

SPORT AIDS DUDLEY. Although Dudley faltered at the last, he made a heroic spurt in the morning round to climb into second place at the three-quarter pole. He had a 66, tying the course record, and his 31 on the par 36 front nine was said to have established a record. Espinosa and McIntyre fought it out with each other to finish in a tie with Dudley for second place. Each had a 210 total when they started the last round, and each turned in a 70 one under par.

Bill Mohrhorn, winner of the event for two straight years, could do no better than a four-way tie with Bobby Cruikshank, Purchasen, N. Y.; Ralph Guldahl, Dallas, and Jack Burke, Dallas.

R. R. Pfence Is Signed By New Bear Manager

Jimmy Hamilton Moves Boards In; Plans Bumper Crop of Rattling Doubles and Homers.

By Ralph McGill.

I see by the papers that Mister James Hamilton, late of Canton and later of Nashville, Tenn.-O-See, is up to his old tricks.

The new manager of the Mobile Bears paid Mobile what the boys called a "flying visit" last week. The term flying visit was coined by buccolic correspondents in the old days when relatives dropped in on the local and spent a week with the home folks. Mister Hamilton did not fly in. He came and spent the day and left.

He had time, however, to start in motion machinations which will make for more home runs in the league of the rabbit ball and the home of the aged. Jim Hamilton inspected the ball park and announced that he would pull the Mobile fences in for a considerable distance.

The Mobile fences are the longest of any park in the league. Whenever a baseball is batted over the Mobile fence it is worth a headline.

SALAD AND MEAT. Jimmy Hamilton, who is seeking to stir the jaded appetites of Mobile fans, dormant these many years, will tease them with a salad course of two-base hits that carom off the walls, and a meat course of good, old-fashioned home runs.

It was Jimmy Hamilton who created old Robert Rightfield Pfence, the tenth player on the Nashville club and the old boy who made a star hitter and the leading home-run slugger out of Jim Poole, the old Atlanta cut-off.

I recall the year that Mister Hamilton took over things in Nashville, Tenn.-O-See. He had a right-field fence that was rather short. He hired hands who could belabor the baseball over it. He had old Yank Davis, "The Tulsa T. N. T." Old Yank had very little T. N. T. left in his system, but he often rapped the baseball over the right-field fence. Once he hit two in one inning. And the fans stood up and yelled and tossed down nickels. Dutch Bernsen and Folly McLarry aided that scheme.

FANS LOVE 'EM. Mister Hamilton was restless. He figured that home runs brought the fans into the park. Every time a fan can choke on peanuts and reach wildly for his pants pocket for a dime to toss on the field he has an urge to come back and do it again.

When the Vols built a new park, Mister Hamilton was left to plan it. He swapped it over. That is he built the new stands so that the home plate was where center field was in the old Dell. And by that shift he got a rise.

HUNTER FACES TEST TONIGHT

Bearcat Obie Is Tough Foe for Atlanta Negro in Bout Here.

Happy Hunter, of Atlanta, versus Bearcat Obie, of Savannah, is the piece de resistance to the Roby series of fights tonight in the Atlanta theater—the bout that has all the fans guessing. The first bout will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Hunter's long record and innumerable successes will be pitted against the sensational 18-straight victory run of the Savannah Bearcat, who outweighs Happy 20 pounds, over the 10-round distance.

"It will be the greatest bout of the year here, main event or preliminary," Roby predicted Sunday. "I'm familiar with the accomplishments of both boys and I'll stake my matchmaking reputation on this battle. Obie has never been knocked down and never defeated and he whipped Speedy Freeman so decisively here recently that he left no doubt in my mind of his ability to hold his own or better with Happy."

Billy Lotz, manager of Hunter during his seven-year ring career, admitted that it looked like one of the toughest scraps Hunter has entered in some months, but he nevertheless was forecasting a triumph for his veteran.

The two principals and the ten preliminary boys—the card is 40 rounds with a battle royal opener—finished up their pre-fight labors Sunday, leaving them nothing to do today but visit the boxing commission and be weighed in and examined.

The promoter made the rounds of the ticket offices yesterday and then predicted a full house for tonight.

"It's as good a card as I've ever staged," he said, "and there'll be more genuine action in it than in both of the recent big shows offered in the auditorium."

Something different in the way of a battle royal will be seen, Roby says. The full card will be:

Bearcat Obie, Savannah, vs. Happy Hunter, Atlanta, eight rounds.
Kid Moon, Atlanta, vs. BullDOG Davidson, Washington, eight rounds.
James Stafford, Atlanta, vs. Battling Black Mason, four rounds.
Bob Corbin, Macon, vs. Young Billy Hooper, Atlanta, six rounds.
Bob Hunter, Atlanta, vs. Kid Curtis, Atlanta, four rounds.
Charles Becker, Atlanta, vs. Battling O'Connell, Tampa, four rounds.
Creteuse battle royal.

FIVE VICTORIES AND NO LOSSES TIDE'S RECORD

Generals Second With Four Decisions; Wildcats Drop Back.

By Dillon Graham

Associated Press Sports Editor. Alabama's Crimson basketball team continued their victorious onslaught last week to defeat Mississippi twice and take the lead in the Southern conference basketball play with five wins. Kentucky and Georgia, favored teams, dropped from the select circle of unbeaten squads.

Sharing top honors with Alabama in percentage were Washington and Sewanee, with four and two triumphs respectively. Both were absent from loop warfare last week, but the Lexington Generals took a 30-34 lacing from West Virginia Saturday night.

The Tusculosa basketball team spanked the Mississippians Monday night, at Oxford, 31 to 21, but had tough sledding to skate out a 30-28 victory the next evening.

Kentucky's Wildcats, tied for the circuit leadership last week with four wins, suffered their first conference defeat in an extra period game with Tennessee Friday night at Knoxville. After trailing throughout the contest the Tennessee Sharpshooters unloaded a final barrage which tied the score of the regular game and then went on to win, 20-to-24, in the play-off period.

BULLDOGS BUMPED.

Georgia, also unbeaten and boasting four triumphs, was eliminated from the top rung by Kentucky Saturday night, at Athens, in another game which required an additional five-minute session before the Wildcats could earn a 22-to-21 verdict. Georgia previously had beaten Auburn, 43 to 25.

After its double defeat by Alabama, Mississippi went on to New Orleans and closed a disastrous week by losing a brace of games to Tulane, 27 to 17 and 33 to 27.

With Captain Bob Jones in the scoring role, Clemson lost Saturday night at Clemson Friday night, 32 to 27. Jones sank seven field goals and a foul shot. Vanderbilt took its second beating in this battle. Obie has never been knocked down and never defeated and he whipped Speedy Freeman so decisively here recently that he left no doubt in my mind of his ability to hold his own or better with Happy."

TERRORS STEP OUT.

After losing to North Carolina at Raleigh Tuesday night, 27 to 25, the North Carolina State Red Jackets, 1929 champions, showed a reversal of form to turn back Virginia at Charlottesville, 36 to 31, and to nose out Maryland, 28 to 28. Duke won its only game of the week by smothering North Carolina, 35 to 14. The overwhelming score was a surprise to the followers of the game in Carolina, where the play of the two squads was such as to forecast a tight battle.

Louisiana State improved its percentage with a 32-to-24 win over the Mississippi Aggies, while Virginia Polytechnic Institute got out of the red with victories over two state conference opponents. The Techmen beat Virginia, 34 to 31, and the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets regained their basket range to pound out a 46-to-25 decision.

The Virginia Cavaliers took it on the chin in three consecutive games, losing to Virginia Tech, 34 to 34, 34 to 26, North Carolina State and Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Florida and South Carolina, sharing the cellar, battled to a tie, idle from conference play last week, but the Alligators beat the Seminoles in a state battle, 40 to 26. In their non-conference opponents, Clemson lost to Furman, 30 to 28, and Alabama bested Howard, 37 to 12.

Centenary Ties S. I. A. A. Leaders.

While the Erskine Seeders were marking time last week, a group of Centenary gentlemen defeated Louisiana Normal to forge into the tie with the Seeders for the leadership among Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association cage teams. Each squad has five wins.

The gentlemen basketballers put the skins under the Normal players, 38 to 24, last Monday at Shreveport and then went into retirement for the rest of the week. Two of their previous four triumphs had been at the expense of the Normal team.

Southern was idle last week and retained its place at the top with one victory and no defeats. Union, one of the four unbeaten squads last week, dropped from the top by losing to Louisiana College, 37 to 35, and now has a 500 percentage.

Millaps served notice on the leaders that it must be reckoned with by trouncing Louisiana College, 42 to 34, and mauling Southwestern Louisiana, 25 to 20. The Jackson five, with the exception of an early season setback by Birmingham-Southern, has swept everything before it.

Wofford continued its forward march by whipping Newberry, 24 to 17. Kentucky Wesleyan beat Berea, 28 to 20, but lost by a 1-point margin—29 to 28—to Western Kentucky.

Boys' Hi-Tech Hi Game Friday Features Week's Prep Schedule

RACE NARROWS WITH PURPLES STILL ON TOP

Nine Games on Card for Teams During Coming Week.

By Roy White.

Tech High and Boys' High will furnish the main attraction for prep basketball fans this week.

The Smithies will meet the Purple basketballers in the feature game of a nine-game schedule for the local preps during the coming week. The Tech High-Boys' High game will be played on the Tech court Friday night, capturing a week that promises much action on the local prep courts.

It will be the semi-final week of play before the teams get ready for the prep tournament to be staged during the week of February 17-22 at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Boys' High with eight victories and one defeat continues to lead the prep race and the way the Hurricane is playing at present there is little doubt that Coach Johnston's team will be declared from the top of the heap. A close race is being waged for second and third place with the outcome very much in doubt. Any one of the teams has an excellent chance to get well up in the race before tournament time.

The Tech High-Boys' High affair will start at 8 o'clock. Boys' High Tech High by several points in the last meeting, and the Hurricane is again favored.

Three games appear on the Tuesday afternoon program. Tech High and Fulton on the Wesley Memorial court, University School, Boys and Boys' High on the Henry Grady court, and Russell High at Decatur in the evening. It is likely that G. M. A. and Marist will play during the week, but nothing definite has been scheduled as yet.

Wednesday will be an off day, but Thursday Russell and Boys' High play at Boys' High and G. M. A. will meet Fulton High on the Wesley Memorial court.

In the Friday games, Tech High will play Marist on the Grady court and Decatur will play Marietta High in Marietta in the feature of a double-header program. University School will journey to Gainesville to meet Riverside Military academy Friday night.

The prep basketball race has been narrowed down to Boys' High, Marist, Tech High and G. M. A. with Boys' High in the lead. Coach Johnston has one of the best basketball teams that has ever represented Boys' High and one that will give the best prep basketball teams in the state plenty of trouble. It has lost only one game and that was to McCallie High in Chattanooga.

Fulton High and Russell High continue to lead in the number of games and those teams play three or four games each week. Coach McCallie has developed a hardworking team at Fulton and one that gave Boys' High a real scrap several days ago. Fulton will enter several tournaments during the latter part of February and early in March and there will be a let-up in the hard work after this week.

Progressive Club Beats Chattanooga

Opening with one strong rush and closing with another, the Jewish Progressive Club courtmen soundly trimmed the Chattanooga Y. M. H. A. quintet on the J. P. C. court here last night by a 36-24 count.

The Pryor street lads took to the basket like maniacs to candy from the opening whistle, running up a safe early lead which they held throughout the game. They left the floor at the intermission leading by an 18-8 margin.

The second half saw a real change in the Chattanooga game, the visitors scoring 16 points to the duplicate 18 tallied by the home club. Chattanooga was not able to rally sharply enough to avert defeat, however.

Captain Friedland, Harry and Dudy Spillberger and Felson, a substitute center, starred for the J. P. C. while Deitch led the Chattanooga attack. Block and Leberitz also played well.

WIN the LINE

by W. O. McGeehan

By Way of Protest.

It is fortunate for the Six Hundred Millionaires of Madison Square Garden that the customers of the many art of modified murder are not as impulsive as the fight fans of France, the City of Marseilles in particular. In the Etats Unis, as M. Sparrow Robertson calls it, the customers of the cauliflower industry are docile and passive. It is written that "Once a customer, always a customer."

This was emphasized at the Battle of What it is at Miami Beach, where a large crowd of confirmed customers watched the dance of Jack Sharkey and the flying trapeze performance of young Mr. William Stribling, of Georgia. They watched it for 15 full rounds without throwing anything in the ring. It is true that a few thousand of them did go to sleep as a mild gesture of protest against the acting in the ring, but outside of that there was no gesture of disapproval.

On the contrary, it seems that another bout or two of the same sort will be staged in approximately the same territory and the promoters expect that nearly all of their old customers will come back. At Madison Square Garden there have been bouts which have roused even the suspicions of the New York state boxing commission, but the customers always come back for more.

As your correspondent was putting forth on the tempestuous Atlantic from the friendly port of Hoboken, N. J., there seemed to be much indignation over the bout between Mr. Bennet Bass, the fellow townsman of Several Boos Hoff, and Tod Morgan, who was the junior lightweight champion before that bout. But on arriving in Paris I get the news that the boxing commission has decided that the boys were doing their best and that they have been vindicated to the general satisfaction of the customers.

The other night they put on what seems to have been a replica of the Bennet Bass-Tod Morgan bout in the arena at Marseilles. We must speak of this arena in the past tense—for alas! that arena is no more. It now resembles one of those German atrocities, but it is beyond restoration.

The show was billed as a bout between Kid Francis, who is no relation of the Francis who holds a post at Madison Square Garden, and a person who was billed as George Mack. It seems that George was not the original Mack, but, on the contrary, was what would be known at home as a ringer. In other words, George was the bunk.

In the course of the evening—in fact, very early in the evening—George took one in the region of the chin and folded up. Selecting a soft spot on the canvas he went into a reclining position as the referee proceeded to count in French. He gave him the French slow count, such as is used when one is dealing out the change and not collecting it. The count when collecting is very rapid, almost precipitate at times.

But there were no signs of animation on the part of George. On the contrary, he reached under his trunk and drew out an old-fashioned nightcap. His seconds tossed him in a nightgown. No French fighter would consider for a moment the idea of taking the long sleep in pajamas.

Instead of condoning the natural drowsiness of George, the customers began to show signs of restlessness. Some of them from afar back shouted to ringside to know if it were true that George had put out the cat and had turned in for the night. To which those at the ringside responded in song, "Il fait bon dormir," or something which means, "He certainly is sleeping."

Aux Armes, Citoyens.

Suddenly the huge form of a sailor of Marseilles ascended one of the chairs in the rear of the arena and shouted, "Aux armes, citoyens! Formez vos bataillons!" The infuriated fight customers of Marseilles rallied to the cry and moved down upon the ring. George Mack discarded his nightcap and his nightshirt and fled in the general direction of the harbor.

The fight fans, raising their chorus higher and higher, moved down upon the ring. The gendarmes of Marseilles attempted to dissuade them, but it could be seen that their hearts were not in their work. They, too, had seen the bout and felt in their hearts that anything that the customers might do in the matter of making a gesture of resentment would be justified.

They broke down the ring. They smashed the bench to smithereens. Every stick of wood in the place was reduced to the size of the fagots that are gathered by the old women in the forests. Gasoline is very high in France, but one of the aroused patriots of Marseilles contributed as much as a liter of the precious fluid to start the blaze.

They were looking for George and the promoter. One of the fight fans, who is a noted chef of Marseilles, suggested that it would be a good idea to cook George and the promoter en brochette over the fire. It seemed a pity to waste so much good cooking fire. It would not matter if they did not proceed to do so for a few moments. They would cook the promoter over the coals and he had already prepared a sauce bordelaise. He would cook them as they never had been cooked before and the cooking of a la Marseilles would be superior to the cuisine Parisien.

But George and the promoter had made a clean getaway. The chef of Marseilles was much offended. He could not comprehend how anybody should avoid being cooked a la Marseilles.

BEARS SIGN R. R. PFENCE

field fence that was barely inside the legal limit demanded by the statute of limitations in the baseball rules. That is 235 feet.

The rightfield fence in the Dell is very, very near that limit and ambitious pop flies go sailing over the fence in a startling number each season. Mister Hamilton always had him a supply of left-hand bitters that could pop flies to right field. Jim Poole hit 33 home runs last season and at least 29 of them must have been hit in the Dell.

JIMMY IS RIGHT.

Now Mr. Hamilton is correct in his psychology. The fans do like to see home runs. There are stories written now and then about how Old John Public is growing tired of home runs. But you will notice that every time one is hit by the home boys Old John Public stands up and whoops himself red in the face. There is something about home runs that inspires cheers.

And so when Mister Hamilton begins to pull in his fences he is doing something that will pull in the fans. He will have him a couple, or maybe three, left-handed bitters to shoot at his rightfield fence. He will give Mobile a home run biter, something they never have had. There will be some Mobile player who will hit about 20 home runs. And all those things mean money at the gate. And money is needed to conduct baseball clubs.

There are few men in the minors who are as smart as Jimmy Hamilton when it comes to creating an interest in the game and he has no peer at getting ball players. His club won no pennants at Nashville and Mister Hamilton gradually wore out his welcome at the Dell, but he went on and won a pennant at Canton, which had never seen a pennant before.

Mobile needs a baseball miracle worker to revive interest. It would not be much of a surprise if Jimmy Hamilton did not work one. That shortstop idea, while it smacks of something or other, creates home runs. And the fans like to see that baseball go sailing over the fence. They will pay for the privilege.

From here the touring professionals will go to Houston for a 72-hole meet starting Wednesday with prizes totaling $2,500.

Teachers in the biggest upset of the week. It was the first association victory of the season for the Teacher squad.

The Mississippi College Choctaws, 1929 association champions, beat Louisiana College, 34 to 27, but dropped in a close battle to Southwestern Louisiana, 39 to 37. Louisiana College got back into the win column again with two smashing victories over Southwestern, of Memphis.

The Eastern Kentucky Teachers won twice from the West Kentucky Teachers, 30 to 26 and 46 to 21, but figured in another of the week's upsets by losing to Transylvania, 23 to 19.

Birmingham-Southern and Mercer split a double bill, the Alabama team taking the opener, 44 to 37, and the Bears copping the final, 51 to 38.

The official standing of the teams after games of Friday, January 31, as announced by S. I. Robinson, of Mississippi College Club, 310 S. Main, association statistician, lists four squads which have failed to play a single association game and another quartet which have lost all their games.

'GOOSE' GOSLIN MAY LOSE POST AT WASHINGTON

Griffith Dissatisfied With Outfielder's Work and May Drop Him.

By Charles M. Egan.

United News Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(United News).—Goose Goslin, the Senators' eccentric left fielder who in 1928 led the American league's batsmen with the healthy average of .370 only to have his batting mark shrink to a mere .288 last year, may not be wearing a Washington uniform when the 1930 season gets under way two months hence.

The Goose hasn't exactly been placed on the market yet, but it looks as if it won't be long, unless Clark Griffith, president of the Senators, undergoes a decided change of heart.

For Griffith seems to have soured on his erstwhile slugging ace in a big, substantial way. So much so, in fact, that he is not reticent in discussing the matter.

As is usual in such cases, the source of the trouble is money. Goslin has been asked to take a big reduction in salary this year and has returned his contract unsigned. If he doesn't accept the terms offered originally, he'll play elsewhere, Griffith says.

GOOSE DIDN'T HELP.

"We can finish in the second division without Goslin just as well as we can with him," the Senators' chief said today. "He'll have to learn the same lesson Babe Ruth learned a few years ago before he made that comeback of his. I'd rather have a good ball player in condition to be in there and deliver his best every day, than a so-called star who failed to measure up for one reason or another."

When Goslin, who is only 28, although he has been a regular with the Senators for eight seasons, led the league two years ago, his batting value was considerably offset by a bad throwing arm. An injury received in spring training stuck with him all season and he was unable to do more than lob the ball back to the infield.

The arm improved during the off season, however, and when Goose and Griffith discussed terms last winter the outfielder secured a $16,000 contract on his statement that he could throw as well as ever. As it turned out, he could not, and whereupon he suddenly lost the batting eye that had stamped him as one of the best hitters in the game.

The contract sent by Griffith this winter called for a big reduction but contained a bonus plan whereby Goslin could earn about as much as ever if he played up to the form he displayed during the seasons when Bucky Harris was leading the Senators to the championship. Goose is holding out on the grounds that such a bonus plan cannot be acceptable to him.

GEORGIA SPORT CALENDAR CALLS FOR BUSY WEEK

Basketball, Boxing and Football Teams To See Action.

By "Buck" Anderson.

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 2.—Three University of Georgia athletic teams face a week of hard work and keen competition.

The Red and Black basketball team faces the task of turning back North Carolina State, present conference champions. Josh Cody's Clemson Tigers and the Atlanta Athletic Club team all in the same week. North Carolina will come to Athens for a game on Tuesday with another strong team. On Wednesday the Bulldogs will journey over to Clemson to entertain Coach Cody's men on their new court, and on Saturday Pat Stephens and company will invade Athens for the first of a two-game series. The second game of the series will be played in Atlanta on the club court.

The Georgia boxers entrained today for New Orleans, where they will engage the Tulane boxers in a bout Monday night. The following men will make the trip: Heavyweight, Congressman Frisby; light-heavy, not represented; middleweight, Turner; welterweight, Claude Bond; bantamweight, Conkey Brown; featherweight, Fielding Russell; lightweight, Sawyer. Main interest in the bout will be centered in the middleweight fight between Grady Turner, of Georgia, and Billy Barker, of Tulane.

A scramble for the regular berths on the 1930 edition of the University of Georgia football team is expected to start in earnest Monday afternoon as Head Coach Harry Mehre ordered the candidates to report for practice with shoulder pads and headgear. This would indicate that the days of ease and comfort are about over for a while for the football candidates, and that the next six weeks will be filled with plenty of hard work.

While the quality of a large part of the building material is still unknown, there can be no question about the quantity. Center and tackle positions appear to be giving the Georgia coaches most concern this year. Backfield, guard and end material appear to be all that could be asked for. Coach Thomas will have about four good men for each position in his backfield if all of his prospects and veterans come through, while Coach Shiver will have Smith and Captain-Edgar Moffat, Washington, Kelly, Crenshaw, Miller and Reynolds to work with.

Schafer Favored.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(United News).—Gillis Grafstrom, of Sweden, world's figure skating champion, will not defend his title in the men's singles, officials of the world championship tournament announced today.

As a result, Karl Schafer, of Austria, who was runner-up to Grafstrom last year in Budapest, has been installed favorite for the competition at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

Harry Wills Delivered Sam Langford His Hardest Sock in Ring.

By Sam Langford.

(Copyright, 1930, by The North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Harry Wills did it to me in Vernon, Cal., a suburb of Los Angeles, on November 25, 1914, in a scheduled 20-round contest. Remember the date? I do. Fighting used to be my business. Yes, sir, Wills hit me the hardest punch I ever got.

That same year I had boxed Harry in New Orleans. I was traveling light and he gave me a battle, though I shuddered him. He was a tall, rangy, fast fellow with a good left and right, and very much at home in a warm climate.

Some months later I wound up in Los Angeles. "Uncle" Tom McCarey's town. "Uncle" Tom was a promoter who got his start in life the same way as Sam Harris, the man who discovered Terry McGovern. He drove a laundry wagon until he was struck by the happy thought that he could do better promoting prize fights.

"Uncle" Tom needed a holiday attraction, and I wasn't going to miss my Thanksgiving dinner if I could help it. Wills was in San Francisco, where he had made a hit bouncing around big Charlie Miller, giant mottoman. "Uncle" Tom, who had a way with him, managed to get Wills to sign.

Coming out of a clinch in the first Wills dropped me for nine with a right uppercut. It was a hard one, and I got up only to go down again from another right to the jaw. I should have known better and stayed down the first time. Before the first round came to a weary end I had gone down three times.

I was down so often in the second that I thought the white canvas was my bed. I woke up along about the twelfth and patted Harry on his back. I had him ready to be taken in the thirteenth, but the gong interrupted. The bell changed for the fourteenth and we both rushed to center. I dropped Harry for nine with a right to the jaw. He got up and started to run away, but I caught him. Then I went back to Jack Doyle's cottage and had a duck dinner. Man, I sure did enjoy that dinner! (Next: Tuffy Griffiths).

"Pongo Joe" Starts Last Long Journey

HICKMAN, Ky., Feb. 2.—(P)—The body of Pongo Joe Cantillon tonight was started for Janesville, Wis., where the veteran baseball man will be buried Monday.

After a short prayer service at his home, the body was taken to Fulton, Ky., and placed on a train for Chicago. His widow started north on the same train.

A squad of motorcycle police will meet the train in Chicago tomorrow morning and escort the funeral party through the loop to the Northwestern station, where the train to Janesville will be taken.

BOUT AT MIAMI MAY NOMINATE NEW CHAMPION

Winner To Get Title If Schmeling Declines To Fight.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 2.—(United News).—The way to a possible selection of a world heavyweight boxing champion promptly was pointed out here today by Judge Jeremiah Mohney, one of seven members of the New York Boxing Commission.

If Max Schmeling, the German heavyweight, should decline to meet the winner of the Jack Sharkey-Phil Scott bout here February 27, the judge said, he believed the New York commission would declare the winner the world's champion.

"In fact," he added, "we wouldn't have to take such action, for the public, the fight fans, would fully attend to that. They make the champion. We are simply going to make our suggestions—which I am sure the public will accept."

Judge Mohney expressed the belief that the entire New York commission might attend the Sharkey-Scott go on masse. Five of its seven members have already signified their intentions of doing so.

William Muldoon, veteran member of the commission, alone may feel unequal to the trip, the judge said. John McEntee Bowman, James I. Bush, Bernard Gimbel, Herbert Bayard Swope and James A. Farley have announced their plans to attend. Judge Mohney said he would attempt to clear his court docket in time to come.

Nine Rounds In Ring Keep Sharkey Busy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 2.—(United News).—Jack Sharkey gave a crowd of Sunday admirers nine rounds of training at his camp at the Miami Beach Kennel Club today.

Sharkey went through seven rounds of ring exercises and then boxed two rounds with Johnny Grosso. He was scheduled to box a couple of rounds with George Cook, of Australia, but Cook misunderstood the training time and failed to report.

Sharkey trotted two miles over the Flamingo park course today instead of his customary three and then played 18 holes of golf.

Largest Crowd Of Year Attends Sunday Concert

Solo numbers by Miss Minna Hecker, Atlanta vocalist, and Mike McDowell, Emory's premier pianist, were enthusiastically received by the largest audience of the year at the Emory University orchestra's thirty-first Sunday afternoon concert. The two favorites took several curtain calls each.

The singing of Miss Hecker, in her second appearance of the afternoon, was augmented by the flute accompaniment of Press Wilhoit, with Miss Irene Leftwich at the piano. The three artists were at their best.

Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey directed this, the most varied of the three programs of this school year. Besides the regular members of the orchestra Mrs. Paul Loecker, cellist, contributed much to the success of the afternoon.

The program opened with "Overture to the Magic Flute," a work of Mozart, by the orchestra.

Miss Hecker gave a flawless interpretation of the Shadow Song from "Dinorah," Minuet from "The Symphony in G Minor" by Mozart then was played by the orchestra.

"Pastorale" (Schubert) received a smooth artistic interpretation at the hands of Mike McDowell, pianist for the orchestra. His two other solo numbers, "Prelude—Dances de Delphes," by Debussy, and Chopin's "Etude in G Flat," or "Black Key Etude," were followed by applause which twice brought him from behind the curtain.

"My Love, He Comes on the Snee," by Clough-Leigher, and "Bishop's Lo! Hear the Gentle Lark," sung by Miss Hecker, delighted her audience. The first was sung with only the piano accompaniment, the second with both the piano and flute.

"Valse Triste," by Sibelius, and the beautiful "Prelude to Act III Lohengrin," concluding with the suggestive chorals which introduce the well-known Wedding March brought the program of less than an hour in length to a close.

About 1,000 persons were able to get inside the auditorium while scores of others were turned away.

IN THE SPRING OF 1916 THE BRITISH BLOCKADE, BY CUTTING OFF ALL COMMODITIES INTENDED FOR GERMANY, WAS MAKING THE GERMANS FEEL THE PINCH OF PRIVATION.

PUBLIC OPINION IN GERMANY DEMANDED THAT THE HIGH SEA FLEET, WHICH SO FAR HAD PLAYED A MINOR PART IN THE WAR, SHOULD MAKE SOME GREAT EFFORT TO BREAK OR WEAKEN THE BRITISH BLOCKADE.

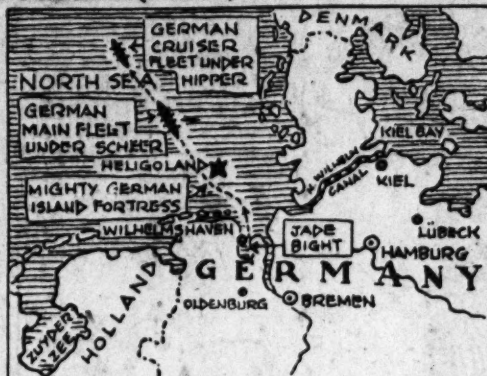

IN RESPONSE TO THIS DEMAND, VICE-ADMIRAL SCHEER, WHO HAD BEEN GIVEN COMMAND OF THE GERMAN FLEET IN JANUARY, 1916, FORMED A PLAN OF ACTION WHICH HE HOPED WOULD DEAL A TELLING BLOW TO BRITISH NAVAL PRESTIGE.

IN THE LATTER PART OF MAY, 1916, SCHEER PREPARED TO ATTACK BRITISH LIGHT CRUISERS OPERATING OFF THE COAST OF NORWAY. HIS OBJECT WAS TO DECOY A PORTION OF THE BRITISH GRAND FLEET OUT INTO THE NORTH SEA, WHERE HE COULD FALL UPON IT WITH HIS WHOLE FORCE.

St. Catherine's Guild Sponsors Bridge Party This Evening

St. Catherine's Guild of Saint Luke's Episcopal church will sponsor a bridge party this evening in the ballroom of the new Shrine mosque for the benefit of the Henrietta Eggleston Memorial Hospital for Children. Among the interesting features given in connection with the Valentine-bridge party will be the cabaret scene in the novel night club skit to be presented by a group of sub-deans and their escorts. The costumes for this feature will be furnished by Rich's, Inc., and will be given promptly at 8 o'clock.

Another feature of the occasion will be the dance rendered by little Jacqueline Gullatt, assisted by her partner, Eugene Adams. Both these children are from the Semon-White School of Dancing, and are talented youngsters. A college orchestra will play during the evening.

Among those making reservations for this brilliant occasion are Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm Turner, Dr. and Mrs. P. H. Jones, Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Rhodes, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Upshaw, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. SLAIN YOUTH'S FAMILY SEEKS $14,000 IN SUIT

MACON, Ga., Feb. 2.—(AP)—The scene of action in the case of Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Powers, 72, condemned murderess, shifted in part Saturday to the United States district court when suit was filed against the Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York to recover $14,000 insurance on the life of James W. Parks, 18-year-old victim of Mrs. Powers' murder plot.

In addition to the $14,000, the action asks $3,500 as a penalty for non-payment, and $3,500 for attorneys' fees. The complainant, Frank E. Ellis, of Atlanta, administrator of Parks' estate, who brought the suit, is represented by the law firm of Brock, Sparks and Russell and T. J. Cochran, Mr. Sallie L. Van Dyke, of Asheville, N. C., is named as the sole heir to the youth's estate. She is Parks' aunt; it was said—the sister of his mother.

While that contest is being conducted in the United States court, Mrs. Powers, alleged instigator of the plot, which resulted in Parks' slaying by Earl Manchester, 19, on the night of last May 27, is confined in the Bibb county jail awaiting the outcome of a motion for new trial. The motion now is in the process of being heard before Judge H. A. Matthews. Manchester also is condemned and his appeal is before the supreme court of Georgia.

The action against the insurance company reviews briefly the incidents which led up to the murder of Parks, and cites the part played by Mrs. Powers. It alleges that Mrs. Powers "voluntarily and feloniously brought about the death of Parks, having induced another person to kill him without justification or excuse."

Pope F. Brock, who with Mr. Cochran has been working on the case, said that it likely will be the first such action ever tried in the courts of this country. It will be a test case, lawyers said.

Attorneys filed proof of death with the insurance company last October and early in November received notice from New York headquarters, it was said, that all liability was denied.

The action claims that Mrs. Powers, "voluntarily and feloniously brought about the death of Parks," and forfeited "all right, title and interest in the insurance contract." It alleges, too, that an assignment can only be taken under the law to secure any indebtedness that Parks might have owed at the time of his death. It is pointed out that "Parks took the insurance in good faith, even though Mrs. Powers was all the while plotting his death to recover the insurance for her own use." The policy was issued to Parks and the receipt for the payment of the premium was in his name.

TWO BROTHERS FACE DEATH FOR MURDER

WATKINSVILLE, Ga., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Two brothers, Harvey and Weyman Bradberry, today faced electrocution and their brother-in-law, Raymond Cooper, life imprisonment on murder charges growing out of the hatchet slayings last November of Doc Elder, 60-year-old negro, and his wife, Frances.

The trio, according to Oconee county officers, confessed to killing the negro couple, incidental to robbing Doc Elder of more than $200. Officers quoted them as saying they turned Elder from his home to aid them in robbing an automobile, then struck him with a hatchet and cut his throat. Elder's wife was struck with a hatchet and stabbed in the heart because she came to the door when they called Elder and they feared she might identify them, the officers said.

Sheriff A. W. Crowley, of Oconee county, testified the Bradberry brothers executed the killings and Cooper planned them. Harvey Bradberry is 19 years old and Weyman is 22. Cooper was found guilty by a jury yesterday of murder of Doc Elder. The jury, which reported late last night, recommended mercy, making a sentence of life in prison mandatory. Earlier in the week he was found guilty of the murder of Frances Elder, also with a recommendation of mercy. Harvey Bradberry was found guilty Friday of murder of Doc Elder and Weyman of murder of Frances Elder. There was no recommendation of mercy for either, which made the convictions equivalent of death sentences.

Stone Will Speak To Presbyterians On February 28

Dr. John Timothy Stone, regarded as one of the most distinguished preachers in the United States, has accepted an invitation to visit Atlanta February 28, according to announcement Sunday by President Richard T. Gillespie, of Columbia Theological seminary. The invitation was extended by the committee in charge of the United Presbyterian movement now being planned by the 26 Presbyterian churches of Greater Atlanta.

For many years Dr. Stone was pastor of the largest Presbyterian church in the city of Chicago, and he recently accepted the presidency of the Chicago Theological seminary, which is the largest Presbyterian institution in the country.

A special committee will be appointed, according to Dr. Gillespie, to make arrangements for the coming of Dr. Stone. The principal event, it is said, will be a dinner meeting of the churches of Atlanta to which the 530 Presbyterian elders, deacons and trustees in the Atlanta churches will be invited. Dr. Stone will speak at the dinner on "Ministerial Education."

BLACKY MAKES A STARTLING DISCOVERY.
By Thornton W. Burgess.
Ease it is that makes the shirk, Need develops joy in work.

Blacky the Crow.

Winter is not an easy time for Blacky the Crow. Then he really has to work for a living. Of course, that doesn't do him any harm. It never hurts any one to work for a living. Blacky has to work for his living at all times, but in summer there is so much to eat, and such a variety of it, that getting all the food necessary is almost play. In winter it is very different. Sometimes Blacky has to fly many weary miles in order to find enough to keep warm in his body and give him energy to fly.

So it is that in the winter Blacky doesn't do much of anything except hunt for food. Once in a while curiosity leads him to go peering here and peering there just to see what is going on. It wasn't exactly curiosity that took Blacky over by his nest of last spring, but rather chance. He just happened to be flying over that way and thought of the nest.

"I'll go have a look at it," thought Blacky. "That was a good nest. That was one of the best nests Mrs. Blacky and I ever had. I think it would be worth fixing up for this coming spring. I'll have to suggest that to Mrs. Blacky. It would be a lot easier to fix up that old nest than to build a new one. It would be a lot less work."

So Blacky changed his direction of flight and headed toward the old nest. That nest was in a tall, thick hem-to see it up there among the evergreen boughs. When Blacky came in sight of the tree he headed straight for it. For once he was not using those sharp eyes of his in the way he was in the habit of using them. He was careless. He flapped along lazily right straight for the branch where he had been in the habit of alighting when visiting the nest. It did occur to him that the nest looked a little larger than usual, but he didn't give the matter any real thought. He alighted and then, and only then, did he realize that things were not at all as he had expected to find them. In fact, Blacky the Crow was as speechless with fright as ever he had been in all his life. He was so frightened that he almost lost his voice. And when Blacky the Crow lost his voice, you may be sure that he is a very frightened crow indeed.

There was a sudden hiss from the very edge of the nest and it was followed by a snapping noise. There was another hiss off at one side and more of that snapping sound there. Blacky all but fell over backwards. He caught himself, however, and then he began to beat those black wings of his desperately. Never had he want-

Grocer Is Held Up And Robbed of $85

A. Golden, operating a grocery store at 334 Merritts avenue, was held up late Saturday night and robbed of $85 by an unknown white man, he reported to police. Witnesses, according to Detectives P. H. Jones and J. J. Chester, stated that three other white men remained outside and watched while the fourth held a gun on Golden and took his day's receipts. This was the fourth holding up of a grocery store for since the special squad was assigned by Chief Beavers.

To Make Friends Rather Than Customers—Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.—Weekly Comment About You, Us and Things in General.

Tailored---Actually!

Tailored Furniture—a new Chamberlin idea that strikes a balance in convenience, color harmony and economy.

It was the thought of Paul Sillin, whose plans for interior decorating are exceptionally original. What do you think of Living Room Suites, splendidly upholstered and luxurious in design, with covers tailored to your individual taste—so that you secure exactly what you want in blending with walls and hangings? Heretofore, this departure in fashion-right merchandise at so low a price has been impossible. We had to begin at the beginning—to create. Study—long, wide, deep—was necessary.

Our buyer went to a manufacturer with a reputation and gave specifications for frame designs. Then, with every possible light on the plan, cover designs were prepared.

Samples of these pieces were then made up and inspected. Everything finally looked right. But, after we ourselves were satisfied, we still weren't satisfied—if you'll permit a bit of Irish. We called in upholstery experts. They looked—they liked—they became enthusiastic. They made a few suggestions.

Now, we want your views. The new pieces are just in. We invite you to inspect them on the fourth floor. Samples only are on display, but we can supply your individual choice—tailored to your order—promptly.

So great is our confidence in the quality of the product that we have specimen cushions cut open, for your approval. You must see even the raw materials.

Sillin calls our attention to the fact that when you sit on the cushion you don't "hit bottom." We tried it—you don't.

Price? Again you'll be delighted. $79.50 buys a beautiful Tailored English Sofa; $39.50 a luxurious Chair to match. Other Tailored Sofas, $98.50; Chairs, $49.50.

Editorial

Old Man "Tow-Head" Nelse Wheeler, a shrewd farmer of older times, once said of his son John: "If I tell that boy to go give the horse eight ears of corn and two bundles of fodder, he'd do it; but if I just say 'Go feed the horse,' he's liable to open the feed room door and turn him in."

Chamberlin's believes heart and soul in man-power, in woman-power. As we walk our aisles, it does us good all over to hear this or that customer call for our sales people by name.

This is of frequent occurrence and is conclusive evidence that our associates are the kind that could be told to "feed the horse"—and do it right. There is nothing we had rather do than recognize fidelity and loyalty among them and if you ever care to tell us of specific instances of good service, rest assured that your story or your letter will be cordially received. Then, too, if we should ever "slip up" any of us, we will welcome bricks as well as bouquets. It is no easy task to meet the public with perfect success in each instance. That is probably impossible. But, perfect performance is our aim and anything you can do to help will be welcome, even though it should be at the expense of our feelings. Welcome bouquets—and bricks.

Sadie Is Ill

The southbound "Birmingham Special" was nearing Atlanta. Our seat was in the observation car. In the next chair reclined a handsome old gentleman, probably a "D. D." Three ladies entered the coach and recognized the clerical-looking passenger. What we heard follows:

"Why my DEAR Mr. Blank! SO glad to see you! How ARE you? How's Mrs. Blank—and Tom—Charlie—Clare?"

"Oh, so GLAD to know they're well. Yes, we're well as can be, all three of us. Only trouble (hee, hee, hee!) is keeping thin enough. He, I have to fight off the old middle age spread—count my calories, you know. Madge and Laura there, don't, but they'll come to it." (Responsive giggles from Madge and Laura.)

"No, Sadie couldn't come; she's sick—we're afraid she's got—"

"Oh, Dr. Blank," interposed Madge, "I saw Mr. Simmons the other day. You know, Sadie's crazy about him; I DO hope she hasn't got—"

"We're just on a shopping jaunt," bubbled the elderly lady, going to ——— and ——— and Chamberlin's ——— and connected with the latter word we caught something about LATEST FASHION. Didn't make us mad either.)

"We've got to go Sadie's shopping, poor thing—oh, we HOPE she hasn't got—"

"Doctor," (Laura, this time), "you ought to see Sadie's new sport roadster. I've burned the roads—and her gas—while she's been sick (hee, hee)!"—then soberly, "I DO HOPE she hasn't got—"

You Judge!

"AT-LANTA! AT-lanta! All out for AT-LANTA!"

Of course, it pleased us for these good ladies to know that we're FASHION-RIGHT but, dad blame it, we'd give a chicken dinner to know what Sadie's got.

Where, of all places, do you suppose we got a new angle on the absolute power of Her Majesty, Empress Fashion?—At a rummage sale!

Two ladies, one the wife of a member of our organization, were conducting such an event for their missionary circle. We happened to pass near their stand and paused to watch.

Garments priced at 10 cents a dozen were scrutinized not only for utility—they were studied for fashion. And some of 'em were discarded because they weren't fashion-right, yes, sir! And they were serviceable garments, too.

At that rummage sale were two poor women who fairly made our heart bleed. They looked so needy; they bought so eagerly—eagerly—greedily. We felt an impulse to offer to supplement their little hoard, knotted in a handkerchief, with a tactfully offered, small donation. Not wishing to hurt their feelings, we refrained. A moment later we were glad we had done so.

"Gracious!" sighed one, dumping the last purchase on their well piled heap, "how'll we ever get all this to the car?"

Yes, b'gosh, they had a car—quite a good looking one.

J. H. Dickson, our furniture buyer, who has just spent three weeks at the Grand Rapids markets, has returned with an announcement that will make anybody "take notice," even in February—the month of big furniture sales.

He prolonged his stay to such length, in order to interview the manufacturers' officials—not assistants, but the officials themselves.

In each case, with our February sale in mind, he made three rigid stipulations: the merchandise must be fashion-right; it must be up to Chamberlin standard; it must be offered you at prices that would compare with any February sale anywhere in Atlanta. Quite some fun, Dickson's—wasn't it!

Did he make good? You be the judge:

Leadership

A bronzed rancher from the west strode into the show room of a Baltimore piano dealer, selling a certain make instrument—call it the "Dash"—and asked to see the finest baby grand in the house. The proprietor pointed to a superb model near the window.

"Is that your very best?" queried the customer, gravely.

"It tops the list," declared the dealer.

It was not only the best of its kind, but along with several similar types of other makes, was the most expensive in the world.

"I'll take it," the prospect promptly answered, with scarcely a glance at the piano. "Send it to my daughter, Miss Blank"—and he gave his home address. Then, and not till then, he inquired the price, without hesitation he paid in cash. He then turned to leave, the whole transaction having taken little more than a minute.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but this purchase which is the record-breaker with us for speed, is so unusual, I would like to know why you bought as you did. Would you mind telling?"

"Gladly," responded the other. "I went to a dealer up on 'X' street and he showed me a beauty. I don't know anything about pianos, and it looked all right. He told me that in tone, design and fashion, his piano was better than a 'Dash' instrument."

"I thought it wouldn't hurt to look around a bit more and drifted into another place. The salesman there counted six points of superiority in his make over the 'Dash,' adding that the 'Dash' wasn't quite fashion-right, though a very good piano."

"The third man showed me another masterpiece in appearance and was so courteous to an ignoramus in music, as I am, that I was inclined to close with him. Then he made this statement: 'It is now conceded that our people are building a better piano than the 'Dash.' 'Those who buy a better piano are better people. What better evidence could be asked? I'm satisfied. I know I've got the best. Your competitors proved it.'"

For Chamberlin's window to be awarded first prize of $150, recently offered in the national contest of Cheney Brothers, naturally made us feel good.

While we have no grudge against the "Windy City," it somewhat enhanced the thrill of victory to hear that Chicago had to take second money. There are window artists in plenty there, and in the many other competing cities. With no disposition to crow, our feeling is that we won over worthy competitors.

The laurels go to our display manager, V. P. McCollum—who, despite his outlandish infatuation, is a master of his craft and has received numerous other awards.

"Mac" not only gets the honor but the cash goes with it.

And now for the best part of the story. Even with the glory and the money, "Mac" wasn't satisfied. He went to the third floor and there engaged in a heated argument with our artist, Mrs. "Peggie" Johnson.

"Mac" swore by the great horn spoon that Mrs. Johnson gave him an idea which was used in his Cheney window. Mrs. Johnson retorted that she never heard of such a thing and that the notion was "perfectly ridiculous."

"Mac" was a hard-headed—Mrs. Johnson was a—resolute, if you know what we mean.

They had it up and down, then they had it back and forth and finally "Mac" took advantage of superior physical strength and, willy nilly, laid part of the prize money on Mrs. Johnson's desk.

The Treasure House of Martin Hews

by E. Phillips Oppenheim

Synopsis of the Preceding Installments.

Martin Hews, a beggar, lives in a huge, sinister house where his art treasures are hidden from the world. The place is full of mysterious electrical devices, and Hews gets about in an electrically controlled chair.

Major Swaton, who tells the story, is a soldier of fortune who has been hired as Hews' bodyguard. On his first visit there, the house is attacked by a dangerous gang of London thieves under the leadership of Hews' chief enemy, an arch-criminal named Joseph. The purpose of the attack is to carry off the beautiful girl named Rachel, who is in the mansion under Hews' protection.

Hews has placed a wire charged with electricity about the approaches to his domain. He has also placed a powerful electric netting upon the inside information, and it is this netting that has caused the trouble. In the fighting, Hews is wounded in the leg, and the thieves, under cover of darkness, shoot and kill his own butler, Miles.

SEVENTH INSTALLMENT.

"The police!" she exclaimed nervously. "I expect you will be wanted."

When I arrived in the library, the police inspector had departed for the grounds to take note of the casualties, and Martin Hews was leaning back in his chair.

"New sort of fighting for you, major," he remarked, his eyes, more heavily than ever, protruding from under his inflamed eyelids.

"It was an undisciplined sort of scrap," I acknowledged. "We had the best of it, I think, but we ought to do better next time with a little method."

"Every one of my men, as you doubtless observed," he continued, "has been a fighter. I watched you, Swaton. As usual, I was right in my judgment. It is really an amazing thing how seldom I make a mistake."

"What I cannot understand," I told him, "is why they all cleared off so suddenly. I won't say that they were getting the best of it, but they were certainly pushing us very hard when they chucked it."

"I can tell you why they went," he said. "I knew Joseph's methods. They had a man near Bringford police station, and directly the police got the message and started out, he sent a warning. They got away at precisely the right moment. But for an act of treachery, major, there would have been many more of them who never got away at all. But Joseph has filled the cells of Bringford police station."

"Treachery?" I repeated.

"His eyes held mine."

"Miles," he explained simply. "He went up to London during the afternoon, and I thought it was lost to have him watched. He was lost in Skerretch within a hundred yards of Joseph's headquarters. There isn't the slightest doubt as to the nature of his business there. Joseph arrived tonight with a plan of our defenses. If his men had attacked as usual, in a semi-circle, there wouldn't have been half of them able to swing a fist or raise a knife. They wouldn't have got over the shock by now. As it was, they came in single file, feeling for the wire, and only one man got it. 'De mortuis, you know, major.' We'll let it go at that, but it is a very curious thing—treachery. They always pay. Miles, you see, is our fatal casualty—the man who turned informer."

"So that was the reason," I muttered.

"That was the reason," Martin Hews assented suavely. "I ran no risk of a mistake. I put him in the chair, and when he attacked, striking, he confessed. You are a soldier, major. You understand the treatment of spies. The death of Miles was an act of justice. It must be regarded as such. I trust that you agree with me."

He had the air of one who has been the witness of some agreeable spectacle. His face, with its little dab of pink color, was unruined. There was not a gleam of nervousness in his manner. He was evidently well pleased with himself, and apparently with me.

The inspector returned—apparently a much graver man. There was a stolid official look upon his face, and I felt at once that he wished us to understand that his attitude toward the household and the whole happening had undergone a change.

"This is a more serious matter than I had imagined," he announced. "We have found a dead man outside, shot through the back, and three or four other, dangerously wounded."

"The dead man is my own butler," Martin Hews scowled. "I had just trained him into my ways, and his loss is a great inconvenience to me. As for the miscreants who tried to storm my house, the only regret I have is that every one of them wasn't badly wounded."

The inspector listened without change of expression. One gathering that his attitude toward us was not particularly sympathetic.

"I notice that your house, sir," he continued, "is fitted with nearly every burglary alarm I have ever heard of. You have, too, a most unusual number of servants, and a powerful searchlight fitted up in the tower."

"And why not?" my employer asked irritably. "I am a nervous person, and, as you may have heard, I have been a collector of treasures for all my life. Naturally I take such precautions as I think are wise. As regards the constitution of my domestic staff, I am a wealthy man, and I choose to be well served by those who can help in such a situation as tonight's."

"The ordinary householder," the inspector observed, "is as a rule content to rely upon the police for protection. If he has exceptional treasures he does not bring them to such a lonely and out of the way neighborhood."

"I am not an ordinary householder," Martin Hews snapped. "This house suits me—its locality suits me, and with all due deference to you, sir, I claim the right to make such arrangements as I think necessary to protect my own property. If we had waited for you to answer our call tonight, you can imagine what might have happened."

The inspector left to question the servants. I was not asked to testify and I went back to bed.

It must have been about a quarter to three when I woke with a violent start. I touched the electric switch of the lamp at the side of my bed and I received a shock. There was no result. Stiff in every limb, I tumbled out of bed and tried the other switch. Still no result. Then, as I stood there, I heard a soft tapping. I threw open the door. A figure, at first undistinguishable, was standing there, holding an electric torch. Directly she spoke, I realized that it was Beatrice Essiter.

"What's wrong?" I asked.

"I can't tell," she confessed. "For one thing the whole of the electric installation seems to have gone wrong. There isn't a light in the house. The secret doors won't open, nor will the telephone ring."

"That's queer," I muttered. "Could any of Joseph's gang have got at the engine?"

"That's what I have been wondering," she replied uneasily. "Jenkins, the electrician, never appeared after the fight was over, and I fancied just as I was getting into bed that the lights were becoming fainter. I struggled into some clothes."

"The police searched the whole house," I remarked. "Did they visit the engine room?"

"I believe they did. I remember how surprised the inspector seemed to be at the size of our engine. Jenkins must have been on duty then, or they couldn't have got in without breaking the door down—and there's something else."

"I was just going off to sleep," she went on, "when I fancied that I heard voices in the house. Then that girl Rachel is. It was then I found out that the lights weren't going, and I am afraid I made some noise in groping about before I could find the torches. Anyhow, she was alone when she opened the door to me."

"Do any of your secret passages connect her apartment with any other portion of the house?"

"Yes. If she knew where her door was, and had a plan, she could find her way almost anywhere. The only thing is that none of the switches that open the concealed doors are working now, as the power has broken down. You know that one of the plans is missing?" Miles confessed this evening that he had stolen it and sold it to Joseph.

I reflected for a moment.

"You are sure the inspector actually visited the engine room?" I asked.

"Quite certain," she replied. "You haven't communicated with your uncle, I suppose?"

"I tried to get into the library," she confessed, "but I couldn't open the door. There is another way, of course, but I thought I had better come and find you. I don't know why," she concluded, "with a little treachery in her tone. I am not nervous as a rule, but at the present moment I am absolutely terrified."

"Much better to come for me," I told her, "especially if you were feeling jumpy. I'll go up at once."

I loaded my automatic quickly and slipped it into my pocket. Then I followed her out into the now deserted hall and mounted the stairs with her. We paused first when we arrived at the third store outside the door that opened and closed only by the electric appliances from Martin Hews' desk. I pressed the button, but nothing happened. A thin stream of light was just visible under the door.

"Where is the other door?" I whispered.

"This way," she answered.

She led me a few paces down the corridor and directed my fingers onto a small, ordinary doorknob.

"Open it and go in," she enjoined. "And make some excuse to Uncle if he is alone. If there is anything wrong, I will go and fetch help."

I gripped my automatic with my right hand, turned the handle with my left, and looked in from the threshold upon a queer and thrilling sight. It was a matter of seconds only before my appearance was discovered, but those seconds were quite enough for me to take in every detail of that amazing scene. Martin Hews was seated at his desk, stiff and rigid, his hands palms downward upon the table, his eyes protruberant, his mouth a little open. He was watched over by the inspector, still wearing his uniform, but with the upper part of his features now concealed by a black mask. He was only a yard or two away from my employer, whom he was averring with a vicious looking automatic.

"A population of 500,000 by 1935" is Atlanta's slogan. Let's all pull together for a Greater Atlanta.

The Constitution's Weekly Business Review

EDITED BY M. D. GLEASON

There is hardly a need or a want that cannot be filled in Atlanta's stores and factories.

Nun-Better Wiping Cloths Now Available in Packages

As a result of frequent requests from automotive dealers and others who have been buying Nun-Better wiping cloths in bulk, the manufacturer, Rittenbaum Brothers, 474 Decatur street, has brought out these well-known sterilized cloths in convenient package form.

Every motorist has frequent use for a clean cloth, but frequently the only thing available is dirty, grease-covered, and perhaps full of grit that might scratch the surface of the car.

The purpose in packing Nun-Better wiping cloths in these small, one-pound cartons was to provide a convenient way of using these safe, sterilized hand-picked cloths.

The carton can be placed under the front seat, where it is easily accessible when a cloth is needed to wipe off grease from a spark plug, or to clean off the windshield. There are, in fact, dozens of uses to which these cloths can be put about a car. Those who do their own car-washing find them a great improvement over the chance cloth picked up on the spur of the moment.

These Nun-Better sterilized wiping cloths packed in the one-pound container are now available to motorists throughout the southeast. For the present this one-pound package is only available via parcel post.

Service Station Grows With Section

At 1546 Piedmont road, near Boulevard intersection, is the Morningside Tire Service Station. In appearance it is one of the best in Atlanta. It sells Seiberling tires and tubes, Seiberling batteries, Sinclair gas and oils, does auto and car washing and renders road service anywhere in Greater Atlanta.

Due to its location just at the beginning of Morningside the station has a large number of regular customers from that fast-growing section and it is an inviting looking station for the regular or occasional traveler riding Piedmont road.

The proprietor, J. O. Cantrell, is an enthusiastic booster for Morningside, and points out that growth per square mile northeast of his station in the past five or six years is a marvelous development to this fast-growing city.

Window Cleaning Company Successful in Business

Twenty years ago this month the National Window Company, Inc., began business here cleaning office and store windows in downtown Atlanta. This cleaning business, like many successful businesses in Atlanta, grows as Atlanta grows, for almost every large new office or sales building that is built provides for one to a dozen more clients for them to serve.

The second year after the company was organized it extended activities to the residential sections. At first it just cleaned windows in homes, but soon began cleaning floors and walls. Now it cleans the outside of the home and large buildings as well.

This firm maintains an organization of experienced cleaners, and the property owner is fully protected against all losses caused by theft or breakage if caused by any of the workmen during working hours.

One of the important kinds of work the company does is the cleaning of newly constructed buildings. Often it is possible here a large building clean while inexperienced men would be getting organized to do the work.

Cleaning the new city hall is an example of the kind of work this firm does. The company has also cleaned the interior and exterior of the new building across from the Henry Grady hotel on the site of the old Baptist church. It also cleaned all floors and walls for the new home of the Knowles-Nash Company at 410 Peachtree street. In the latter job it also tinted the walls.

In addition to cleaning buildings and homes the company is doing interior and exterior painting, wall tinting and cleaning wallpaper, and cleans, shelves, waxes and polishes floors.

Kent Signs Have Occupied Enviably Position 30 Years

Kent Sign Company, 26 1-2 Pryor street, N. E., has been in business since 1906 and its signs have long been recognized as being among the best. The ambition of the management of this shop is to please patrons so well with each job that they will order more work.

Alex H. Kent, founder and manager of the business, has long been recognized as one of the city's most artistic sign painters, as well as one of the most rapid letterers in the south. Much of the success of his business is due to the fact that he studies the individual needs and tastes of his patrons and endeavors to conform to their ideas.

The Kent Sign company is equipped to make or handle any kind of signs. While one crew is doing shop work another is out doing office and door sign work. In this particular field the company is considered usually proficient and hundreds of neat door and window signs in Atlanta bear mute testimony of the skill of some workman from the Kent Sign Company.

Not only does this sign company do work in Atlanta but all over the south. In addition to making durable signs, it also does quick show card work.

John A. Van Cooten, an artist and specialist in rapid show card work, looks after this department, and he uses the latest methods. Another man of proved ability with the company is Clarence Welch.

The Kent Sign Company does any kind of sign work, cloth, card, wood, metal, gold lettering on windows and office doors, signs on buildings and trucks.

Lee Baking Company Makes Good Record

During the year just passed the new Colonial bakery has served the people of Atlanta with more than 7,000,000 loaves of bread and hundreds of thousands of cakes. This enviable record could not have been achieved without the wholehearted approval of those who have tried Colonial products.

More than 100 skilled employees in the Lee Baking Company, each required to furnish a certificate of health as a fundamental qualification, lend an invaluable service in producing the popular Colonial products.

The Lee Baking Company with its new equipment, well represents a great advance in the science of baking. Its cleanliness, the presence of sunshine throughout, the efficiency of operation, guarantee to the housewife that when she buys Colonial products she is getting just as fine as is possible to obtain. The bakery is so carefully planned, precisely built and completely equipped that bread making here becomes a scientific process. Only the best materials which have been carefully tested for quality, flour, yeast, rich milk, shortening, sugar and salt are used.

A visit to the Lee Baking Company plant will prove not only interesting from an industrial and civic standpoint, but will reveal a care and attention which is unusual even in a bakery.

A. B. Lee, president, says the public is always welcome and he will be glad to answer any question on Colonial breads and cakes as made.

Robertson & McGeeney Report Steady Growth

About five years ago T. W. Robertson and J. L. McGeeney formed the Robertson & McGeeney Printing Co. The business has grown steadily, each year and year showing an increase.

One of the factors that helped this firm progress from the beginning is that both members of the firm are practical printing men themselves, both having been connected with the business here for many years.

These men are not the only good printers but are also good printing salesmen. They alternate in shop supervision and outside sales. In equipment they have installed the latest machinery that enables them to do the best of printing as quick as the time and work will allow.

Due to the fact that they have large presses they are able to print the large sheet work as well as the small monthly statements their customers need. The quality of their work they are exceptionally good.

In addition to good equipment these men surrounded themselves with good workmen, and they carry a large stock of the finest grades of paper.

Office Equipment Business Increases

W. A. Horne, president of the Horne Desk and Fixture Company, of 35 Pryor street, N. E., reports that business has been much better for December and January than it was for the corresponding months a year ago. This firm has taken on several new lines and made additions to its standard equipment until at this time the three floors of the large building it occupies is stocked with nearly every need of the modern business office.

The steel filing cabinets sold by this firm are made by the nationally known Brown-Morse Company. They are made in all standard sizes. The new Grove steel desks are also carried in all sizes and make a very attractive looking desk.

In wood desks and matched suites this firm carries the Stow-Davis Harrocks lines and fine office chairs made by the B. L. Chair Company. The stock includes an exceptionally large assortment of desks and chairs suitable for all commercial or professional lines.

The Horne Desk and Fixture Company has as salesmen N. H. Randolph, E. W. Groves and H. W. White. They not only sell equipment but when called on to do so they plan just the right number of pieces to acquire.

THE SON OF TARZAN No. 61

Meriem saw a bungalow set in palm-trees and the many buildings of a civilized African town. Knowing nothing of civilization she looked in wonder at the peaceful scene. "Where are we? Let me go. I am afraid, Swana," she said, using the name the natives called their master. "That is my home and there you will be safer than in the jungle," replied the man. "You are only a little girl. It is better for you to stay with us a while."

Meriem laughed. "The jungle is my father and mother. It has been kinder to me than have men. I love it. I would rather die than leave it forever; but your 'dour' is close beside the jungle. You have been good to me. I will do as you wish and remain here to wait for the coming of my Korak." Shortly before they reached the house, a dozen gaunt wolfhounds ran barking toward them, their appearance savage and unfriendly in the extreme.

Each in turn sniffed at Meriem who displayed not the slightest fear of them. Her slim fingers grasped the collar of the dog and with one on either side she walked up the path where a woman in white was coming forward to meet them. There was more fear now in the girl's eyes than there had been in the presence of strange men or savage beasts. Meriem saw that the woman was beautiful. Sweetness and goodness marked her countenance.

The man kissed the woman fondly, and then, taking the girl's hand, said, "This is Meriem, my dear, briefly telling her in Arabic the story of the jungle. When the woman came and put her arms about Meriem and kissed her, something snapped in Meriem's heart and she wept as she had never wept before. Tears of relief and joy that she could not fathom. Thus came Meriem out of the jungle into a home of culture and refinement.

26 Gallons of 'Corn' Seized in Home Raid

In a raid on a residence at 486 Boulevard place late Sunday night, a police prohibition squad captured 26 gallons of corn whiskey and arrested Mrs. Maggie Thigpen, 41, in connection with the seizure, it was reported at headquarters. Mrs. Thigpen, who told Officers R. H. Dupree, Bill Holland and C. C. Harper that the "liquor" belonged to a man living in the house, was held on a disorderly conduct charge. A search is being conducted for the alleged owners of the contraband. Mrs. Thigpen's daughter, three and a half years old, was carried to the police station with her mother.

BY THE DIAL TWISER.

Six songs which he never had broadcast before, and which he selected as favorites will be sung by Giuseppe DeLuca, Metropolitan Opera baritone, when he appears as guest artist of the General Motors Party this evening at 8:30 o'clock over WSB and the coast-to-coast N. B. C. network. In addition he will sing "Largo All Factotum" from Rossini's opera "The Barber of Seville" which he has sung frequently at the Metropolitan and other world-famous opera houses. Supplementing Mr. DeLuca will be a program of three numbers by the orchestra conducted by Don Voorhees.

Unwanted Rider Commandeers Car And Robs Owner

A new wrinkle in the methods of Atlanta holdup men came to light Sunday night when D. J. Howard, employee of a downtown drug store, was held up and robbed of a watch and more than $33 in cash.

Howard went to his home at 582 Angier avenue for his evening meal and parked his car in front of the house, returning to the vehicle a short time later and unsuspectingly climbing in. A negro rose up from the rear seat, where he had been hiding, and, shoving a pistol in Howard's back, ordered him to drive toward the outskirts.

Tris drive had been reached the negro instructed Howard to halt his car, and then, after robbing him, he jumped from the machine and fled. The holdup was investigated by Chief Officers John Bowman and C. P. Whaley.

Police Captain A. J. Holcomb, while complimenting the holdup on the ingenuity, warned auto owners either to lock the doors to their machines or, at least, to search the interior for intruders before entering.
